WASHINGTON, PA., CLERK KILLED WITH CROWBAR

Attracted by a still burning flashlight laying on the ground before her home, in Hawkins avenue, Washington, Pa., Margaret Ohs, 22, went into the street and found Israel Slotsky, 26, also of Washington, who had left her but a few minutes before, lying there with his skull shattered. A bloody crowbar lay beside the body. He died three hours later in Washington hospital. Police said his money and jewelry was untouched. They are using a jealousy motive as the base for their search.

ELKHART, IND., Jan. 20.

AFTER a rainy morning in Chicago, this is written on the Twentieth Century, bound East through rainy Indiana.

Some Chicago citizens worry needlessly, about Chicago's crime news. The news nearly always tells of criminals killing other criminals, a cause for rejoicing, not grief.

ATTENTION turns to the Chicago gangster war, going on while "Scarface Al" Capone is resting in Florida.

In Capone's absence foolish Harry Fuller, 28 years old, from South Bend, Ind., organized a hijacking crew, held up and robbed Capone bootleg wagons.

SUCH things cannot be tolerated, so another gangster kidnaped Harry Fuller and two of his assistants, Joseph Gaziando, aged 18, and Joseph Fasso, aged 21. All three were "taken for a ride," Fuller and Fasso thrown out at one place, Gaziando at another, all dead, of course.

WHEN weazels kill rats or gangsters kill gangsters, the good should rejoice.

Let Chicago and other cities burdened with crime problems ask this question:

How can you expect to deal adequately with criminals through your police and detective forces when profits on bootlegging enable criminals to pay policemen and detectives five times as much as the city pays them?

A Chicago chief of police testified that more than half his men were engaged in bootlegging.

Securely organized crime will last as long as securely organized bootlegging and that probably will last as long as prohibition.

CHICAGO, growing with extraordinary rapidity, solving its traffic and other problems more energetically and efficiently than any other city, sets an example to the rest of the country.

And the big state of Illinois, issuing $160,000,000 on state bonds in addition to $33,200,500 county bonds for hard roads, has nearly 6,000 miles of such roads. These figures are printed to oblige Messrs. J. H. Forrest and James P. Bicket, proud Chicago citizens.

EARNEST men and women write, "Why do you oppose capital punishment? Isn't hanging or electrocution too good for a vile murderer? How can you frighten murderers if you don't kill them?"

Yes, hanging is too good, especially for a kidnaping murderer. But hanging and the electric chair, as prison superintendents testify, instead of frightening murderers make them feel heroic.

TWO men kidnaped and murdered two little school girls. The first crime was committed in California, where they have capital punishment. The criminal is now in jail, having his picture taken, reading his "fan" mail, not much worried about the hangman, while alienists work over him. His crime was committed more than a month ago.

IN Michigan, where they have no capital punishment, Adolph Hotelling, an elder in the church of Owosso, murdered a little girl. Three days after he was caught, he was in Marquette Prison, to spend the rest of his life at hard labor. Which is the better system?

FIVE POISONED IN SCHOOL INITIATION

PROFESSOR IS DYING, GIRLS ILL

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Chemical preparations eaten during initiation into a high school chemistry club today resulted in the serious illness of a high school instructor and two girl students.

The instructor, Clarence C. Coontz, 28, of the science department, is in a hospital, reported near death. Alice Eggleston, 15, and Jane Zellich, 16, both of Toledo, are seriously ill. Two other girls are believed recovering. It is not known whether others of the initiatory class of 15 were affected.

Lulu Howard, chemistry instructor, said she had tested the chemicals carefully before they were mixed for the initiation "stunt" last night. The preparations consisted of baking soda, castor oil, sugars, tea, dried sand and pumice stone.

It was thought that oysters dipped in castor oil might have caused the illness. This was the final test of the novices.

Afire, Girl Saved by Mother

Enveloped in flames when her clothing caught fire from a hot plate in her home at 175 Cherry street, Whitaker, this morning, Anna Hicks, 16, was burned seriously, and her mother, Mrs. Sarah Hicks, 40, in trying to extinguish the flames, was burned slightly.

The girl was making toast in the kitchen and as she turned from the hot plate her dress brushed the fire and was ignited. Her screams brought her mother from a front room, and Mrs. Hicks beat the flames with her hands, and then wrapped her daughter in a rug. The girl was taken to the Homestead Hospital.

EVANS BURROWS FONTAINE

Mrs. F. E. Fontaine, 50, of New York, was instantly killed when a train struck the auto in which she was riding near New Smyrna, Fla., as she hurried to the bedside of her daughter, Evans Burrows Fontaine, the dancer, who is reported seriously ill in a Miami hotel. Miss Fontaine was not told of her mother's death.

SUIT HALTED AS JUROR BARES TAMPERING

A juror's report that $10 had been offered him to favor the plaintiff today brought a temporary end to the suit of Katherine Porter, Sewickley, against the Pennsylvania Railroad for personal injuries suffered in a collision.

Judge Thomas J. Ford ordered dismissal of the jury after the unnamed juror had told him of the offer, made by "a stranger." The court referred the case to District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner.

REVENGE THOUGHT MOTIVE

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 20.—Another chapter in the narrative of terrorism that reigns here was written today when Israel Slotsky, 26, of 227 West Beau street, died a slayer's victim at the Washington Hospital at 3:45 a. m. At midnight he had been found with a fractured skull near the home of Miss Margaret Ohs, Hawkins avenue, with whom he had spent the evening.

Police are mystified as to the motive for the crime. It was determined that there was no attempt at robbery and it is believed that he was struck down by an enemy seeking revenge. A suspect was arrested and held for questioning.

FOUND BY GIRL

Slotsky carried a flashlight to light his way home from the suburban section in Canton township, on the edge of Washington, where the girl lived. A few minutes after he had said "good night," Miss Ohs went to her room on the second floor and observed the glow of the flashlight on the lawn. Rushing from the house, she found Slotsky prostrate with deep wounds on his head and across his chest. Nearby was a blood-stained crowbar which had been used in felling the victim.

HAS SISTER HERE

Slotsky was a member of a well known Jewish family of Washington. A sister, Mrs. Bess Campfire, resides in Pittsburgh, and another sister, Miss Ida Slotsky, is a nurse at the Allegheny County Home at Woodville. Three brothers, Meyer, Jacob and Louis Slotsky, are well known Washington business men. Slotsky was employed by the Hazel-Atlas Glass Company here.

Miss Ohs is of Swedish descent and is an orphan. She lives with her cousin, Henry Johnson, and became acquainted with Slotsky at the Hazel-Atlas Glass Company's office where she also is employed.

VARE MAY QUIT FIGHT

TO RUN AGAIN, SMITH OUSTED

Overwhelming Defeat Handed Illinois Senator-Elect—Decision Sets Precedent.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHISON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—A new "unwritten law," barring from the Senate men elected through the expenditure of great campaign funds, was drying on the statute books today as a result of the Senate's action in excluding Frank L. Smith (R.), of Illinois.

For the first time in its history, the Senate denied a seat to a Senator-elect holding legal credentials, on the ground that excessive campaign expenditures tainted his election with "fraud and corruption."

In excluding Smith, the Senate formally endorsed the "rule" laid down in the old Newberry case six years ago, that heavy campaign expenditures invalidated an election.

OVERWHELMING VOTE

The vote ousting Smith was so overwhelming it surprised even his opposition. It was 61 to 23, with 21 Republicans, one Farmer-Laborite and 39 Democrats voting against him, while but two Democrats and 21 Republicans voted for him.

Illinois was left with but one Senator as a result of the Senate's action. Authorities here were agreed that the next move is up to Gov. Len Small of Illinois, who can appoint a temporary successor to Smith pending a special election to fill the vacancy or simply permit the vacancy to exist until another Congress convenes, when Smith might try again to enter the Senate.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—Senator-elect William S. Vare's reply to the amended petition submitted to the U. S. Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections on behalf of William B. Wilson, defeated Democratic candidate, will be filed at Washington tomorrow by Francis Shunk Brown, counsel for Vare.

The reply was completed last night following the Senator-elect's return from a short vacation in Florida.

TO DROP CLAIM

The Philadelphia Senator-elect is planning to relinquish all claims to the Senate seat and go before the voters of the commonwealth at the April primary as a candidate for the office, according to rumors in political circles here this forenoon. Verification of the report all depends upon the Senate's action on the reply which will be filed with the Senate tomorrow. For if the Senate Committee delays its report until after February 24, Vare will be unable to file his nominating petition under the present state law which requires the petition to be filed two months prior to the primary.

In the event the Senator-elect runs again this year it is regarded as a certainty in political circles here that he will team up with Senator David A. Reed of Pittsburgh who will be a candidate for re-election.

Len Small May Quit to Take Smith Seat

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—(INS.)—Rumors were circulated in Chicago and Springfield, Ill., today that Gov. Len Small contemplated resigning and with succession to the governorship of Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, would be appointed to fill the seat made vacant by the Senate's action in excluding Frank L. Smith, Illinois senator-elect.

MISERY RAMPANT AT MINES, CLERGY SAY

Conditions in the mining camps of Allegheny county steadily are growing worse, the executive committee of the Clergymen's Fund for Miners' Relief declared today in a formal report, "and the completed story is obviously going to be appalling."

Over the signatures of the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, rabbi of Rodef Shalom Temple; the Rev. Dr. William I. Wishart, former moderator of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church; the Rev. L. Walter Mason, pastor of the First Unitarian Church; the Rev. Father J. F. R. Corcoran, head of the Catholic Charities, and the Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, chairman of social service of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches of Christ, another urgent appeal for funds was issued.

They say:

"We are appealing to you on behalf of the suffering people whose need is desperate and whose plight is deplorable, the families of coal miners, especially their women and children.

RECORD WIND BLOWS IN COLD WAVE

A cold wave swept into Pittsburgh today on the heels of the most severe windstorm the city has ever experienced, which caused widespread damage, and the effects of which were still felt today in limping traffic systems.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the thermometer registered 15 at the weather bureau, with a biting west wind blowing at 26 miles an hour. By tomorrow morning the mercury will fall to between 5 and 10 degrees, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said, but the wind will subside. Snow flurries will accompany the cold.

HIGHEST WIND ON RECORD

A newly-installed anemometer at the weather bureau last night registered a velocity of 62 miles an hour, the highest on record, according to Brotzman. The old instrument would have recorded a velocity of 80 miles an hour, he said, but this measuring device for years has rated wind movements nearly 20 miles an hour over actual velocity.

Snapped trolley wires caused delay in several parts of the greater city this morning. A sheet of thin ice on highways, combined with drifted snow in places, impeded automobile traffic. At the Liberty tubes, traffic was tied up during the rush hour this morning by motorists being compelled to use chains in descending Brownsville avenue. Railroads reported most trains running on time.

Traffic was tied up for an hour or more at the Liberty tubes until a city truck, piled high with ashes, had distributed its load and made the steep roadway safe for travel. Without the slightest warning, a machine would skid around crosswise in the street, ripping off fenders and smashing anything that happened in its path.

The tunnel filled rapidly and a long line of traffic extended up Brownsville road. County Motorcycle Patrolman Jack Eckert ordered motorists to put on chains be-

Stage Stars Raise $2,300 For Miners' Families

BENEFIT TO BE REPEATED IN EAST LIBERTY THURSDAY

JEANETTE M'DONALD

Ain't she sweet? No? Well, isn't she sweet? The 2,000 persons who crowded into the Davis Theater last midnight for the miners' benefit show answered a loud "Yes." Jeanette's from "One Sunny Day" at the Nixon.

OPEN THOSE GATES!

Half an hour before the show started the Davis lobby was crowded with theatergoers. The $1 admission and donations brought receipts approximating $2,300. There were no expenses, not even cab fares as the Green Cab Company carried the performers to and from theaters and hotels free.

A SMALL TOWN BOY

Chic Sale, the well-known small town boy who recites pieces and plays the zither, had the embarrassing (?) experience of being escorted to the Davis from the Alvin and "Gay Paree" by a large bunch of pulchritude. It beats all how these small-town fellers get to be city slickers in less time than it takes to tell. Another miners' benefit will be given at the Sheridan Square Theater, Thursday.

TWO YOUTHS HELD AS THREE KIDNAP PLOTS ARE FOILED

COLUMNIST HUNTED IN THIRD

Three kidnaping plots in widely separated parts of the country, all involving death threats, were reported frustrated this morning and in each instance at least one alleged plotter was arrested. Two of the plots were laid to youths.

Instead of complying with a demand that $1,000 be placed at a designated point, relatives of Gladys Collins, 14, of Chester, Pa., arranged a trap into which Joseph Jennings, 17-year-old West Philadelphian, walked. He was overpowered and turned over to police by four brothers of the intended victim.

Andrew Heunekcn, 17-year-old golf caddie, is under arrest in Del Monte, Cal., where police say he attempted to extort $1,000 from Mrs. R. G. Tunnison, wife of a Chicago physician.

An alleged band of kidnapers is being rounded up in Lynn, Mass., in connection with the attempted extortion of $25,000 under threat of death from Frederick W. Enwright, publisher, of Lynn and Boston. One man is under arrest. A columnist formerly employed by Enwright is one of the others sought.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—Search was instituted today for accomplices of Joseph Jennings, 17, of this city, who confessed to demanding $1,000 from William Collison, of Collingdale, under threat that he would kidnap and murder his daughter, Gladys, 17.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—The Public Service Commission today sustained a complaint brought by the Pittsburgh Transportation Company against the Checker Cab Company, Pittsburgh. The commission directed the Checker Cab Company to cease operating taxicabs until it obtains a certificate of public convenience.

The commission held that the certificate held by the company expired on June 1, 1923, and that it "clearly had no right to operate the 10 taxicabs it began to use in 1927."

MISERY AMONG MINERS

found, by the personal inquiry and visitation of our experienced social workers, to be really destitute. By actual contact with these people, housed not only in temporary barracks, but in all sorts of makeshift shelters, in 18 mining communities out of 70 or more in the county, 482 families have already been found who have not nearly enough to eat and to wear. Children are going half-naked and babies are starving for milk. Bad enough at present, the situation grows worse, and the wretched harvest of mal-nutrition and exposure will be reaped in the months to come. Some miners' families can get along without assistance. We ask no help for them.

"Careful investigation continues as fast as our limited staff permits, and the completed story is obviously going to be appalling.

"Please bear in mind three things: First, that the relief so far provided by all other organizations and interested persons has not been at all adequate. Second, that the response to our first appeal has been very small, amounting to less than $1,000, perhaps because the appeals was issued just at the close of the holiday season, and has not been followed up. Third, that the work of relife is being conducted by trained and experienced social workers from the established social agencies of the city and county. No indiscriminate 'charity' is dispensed. No spasmodic 'basket' relife is countenanced. No money is handled by the families who are helped. The needs of each family are studied and budgeted. Where necessary, credit is provided at local stores. Continuous relief, so long as the need requires, is the purpose. This mode of procedure is guaranteed by the trained personnel of the Central Relief Committee. Relief is limited to Allegheny county.

"TAKE NO SIDE"

"We take no side in any controversy in the coal industry, but we do attempt to speak for those who cannot speak for themselves, and we do appeal for generous funds in the name of our common humanity."

The full committee back of the clergymen's fund is composed of ministers of 10 Protestant denominations, the Roman Catholic, Greek Orthodox and Jewish churches in Pittsburgh. Three bishops are in the number.

The clergy of the city have been asked by the executive committee to urge their congregations to contribute to the miners' relief fund and to take a public offering for the purpose next Sunday or as soon after as possible. It is requested that checks and money be paid to Harry S. Samson, treasurer, 537 Neville street, Pittsburgh.

It was announced today that the Beechview Methodist Episcopal Bible class, which has been conducting a campaign for miners' relief in that neighborhood, under the leadership of Mrs. Ida Allen, has joined forces with the clergymen's relief organization.

A "potato day" is to be held in the Beechview schools. The children will bring potatoes, which will be distributed among needy miners' families.

Guard Coal Town Fire Fighters

FINLEYVILLE, Pa., Jan. 20.—While a detachment of state troopers from the Library barracks protected them, members of the Monongahela Volunteer Fire Department early today battled for three hours fire which swept three Pittsburgh Coal Company houses at Hackett, Washington county, three miles west of here, causing an estimated damage of $6,000. None of the houses was occupied.

The Monongahela fire company answered a call after the Finleyville volunteer firemen refused to respond to the alarm. Finleyville's firemen declined to attend the fire, it was learned, because of an attack which was made on them several weeks ago by a large number of union sympathizers in Hackett, when they responded to fight a fire which destroyed two "company" houses.

Flooring was removed from a bridge on the road to the fire, a stone's throw from the scene.

William Stewart, driver of a pump truck manned by a force of 20 men, brought the speeding apparatus to a stop when a state police automobile blocked the road to the bridge. The troopers upon their arrival at the fire had discovered the opening three minutes before the fire company arrived, after a 12-mile dash from Monongahela.

A hastily arranged construction of railroad ties to fill the gap gave way as the heavy truck passed over it. The truck was finally brought to even keel and taken across in a second attempt.

The three burning houses were beyond saving when the firemen reached the scene. By dint of speedy work, they were able to save nine other houses in the row.

When a crowd gathered at the fire state police stood guard nearby to avert any repetition of an attack.

I. K. CAMPBELL DIES; THRICE COMMISSIONER

Irvin King Campbell, Civil War veteran, identified with the iron and steel industry of Pittsburgh in the pioneer days, and three times county commissioner of Allegheny county, died this morning at the home of his son, Herbert E. Campbell, 105 Lexington avenue, Aspinwall.

Born in Fallston, Beaver county, in 1843, Mr. Campbell enlisted in the Union forces September 26, 1861, and served first as corporal in Company A, Thirty-eighth Regiment, Pennsylvania Reserve Volunteer Corps. He later was transferred to Company K, One Hundred and Nintieth Regiment, as a corporal and was honorably discharged in 1865. From August, 1864, until February, 1865, Corp. Campbell was held a prisoner in Salisbury prison, North Carolina. He was a member of the G. A. R. and the Union Veteran Legion.

For many years Mr. Campbell was connected with the Oliver Iron and Steel Company and the Colonial Steel Company.

He leaves six sons, William I. Campbell, St. Paul, Minn.; Herbert E. Campbell, Aspinwall; George C. Campbell, Pittsburgh; Robert M. Campbell, Cleveland, O.; Alfred B. and Frank E. Campbell, both of Pittsburgh, and a daughter, Mrs. John H. Brooks, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Funeral services will be held Sunday night at the home of Herbert E. Campbell, Aspinwall, and burial will be Monday in the New Brighton Cemetery.

WITHIN 200 years the average life has increased from 20 to 60 years, but a man of 50 has very little better chance of life than a man of that age 100 years ago.

LASKER wisely gives money to find out why it is that human beings after 50 break down so quickly.

If the scientists will let him, Lasker should use some of his money investigating suggestions that medical science would call "all nonsense." All nonsense is what the doctors called the theories of Pasteur, who taught them more than they ever knew before.

A DISPATCH from Nicaragua says Sandino, the rebel-bandit who killed some of our marines, has been killed by a bomb from one of our airplanes.

The Nicaraguan rebels now know that they have no more chance against United States flying machines than a rabbit has against eagles. That is satisfactory so far as our Nicaragua fight goes.

But our President, Congress and the Army and Navy Departments, should remember that several countries in Europe, and at least one in Asia, exceed us so greatly in air power that they could do to us, if they chose, what we have just done to Sandino.

WE NEED FIGHTING AIRPLANES, not merely a sample force of the Nicaragua size.

IDLE, RUNS AMUCK; DYING

WOODLAWN, Pa., Jan. 20.—Firing from two revolvers at police officers and clerks at the Aliquippa works of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, Peter Nesdo, 34, of Woodalwn, believed mentally deranged, was shot three times and probably fatally wounded by the officers shortly before noon today. He was taken to the Rochester General Hospital.

Nesdo, an employe of the company, temporarily laid off because of an injury, entered the safety office of the plant mumbling about "a job." He drew two revolvers and, pointing one at Carl Tschippert, a clerk, pulled the trigger three times, but the bullets failed to explode.

William Smith, another clerk, summoned Patrolman William King, Lieut. E. Harris and Capt. H. G. Mauk of the plant police force, and Nesdo fired three shots at them. King and Mauk then opened fire and the crazed man was dropped with three bullets.

PLAYGROUNDS REFLECT CONDITIONS

Once the mecca for laughing boys and girls of Curtisville, the playground shown above has taken on a rather desolate appearance these troublesome days. The mines were shut down last April when the strike began and little attention has been paid to playgrounds or any other municipal project the past few months. Many families have moved away and those remaining are being evicted.

WOMEN PROVIDE FOR WORKERS

Members of the woman's auxiliary, Curtisville local, United Mine Workers of America, prepare hot coffee and food for the men working in the cold and dampness, erecting barracks. Two hundred dollars a week is the allotment for this community which includes 61 families with 167 children and 20 single men.

AT WORK ON THEIR NEW HOMES

Every able-bodied man turns out for the erection of the new barracks. A shortage of materials has delayed the work considerably, but the new homes are expected to be ready for occupancy about the first part of next week. Shortage of coal and water present a serious problem, it is said. The men have been chopping down trees for fuel, but this supply will soon be exhausted, they say.

FIEND GOES GIBBERING TO CELL

By International News Service.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Jan. 20.—Today, he is Number 4438. A week ago, he was Adolph Hotelling, respected citizen of Owosso, Mich., deacon of the Church of Christ, beloved husband and father.

He is beginning the second day of the life sentence imposed on him for the murder of 5-year-old Dorothy Schneider, of Mt. Morris.

He cowers in his cell, mumbling incoherencies. He peers furtively at the passing wardens and shrinks in terror from the cold hate in the eyes of his fellow prisoners.

He arrived last night on the Michigan Central train. During the trip he sat beside Deputy Sheriff Mark Failthrope, and he neither ate nor slept.

Behind him, as the train sped on, he left the subsiding clamor of the greatest man-hunt in Michigan's history. But ahead of him at every wayside station were gathered crowds that pushed and struggled for a glimpse of "the monster."

Mothers held aloft their children and pointed to the car window at which he sat. He had become a "bogeyman," this village carpenter who had never spoken harshly to his own little ones, and to whom the children of his neighbors once had run with trusting smiles.

At Soo Junction, an infuriated woman hurled a chunk of ice at his window. He shrank back against the deputies.

At Marquette he was placed in an automobile and driven along the shore of Lake Superior to the desolate prison. The massive gates closed behind him "for the rest of his natural life."

"Kaiser Bill's" Life a Dog's, But Stern Law May Take It

THE law, that he doesn't understand and has never had a voice—not even a yap—in making, paused today to weigh the fate of "Kaiser Bill."

Bill is a German police dog, and belongs to Mr. and Mrs. William Gay, of Mt. Sterling, Ky.

A few weeks ago, by due process of law, Bill was convicted as the murderer of 36 sheep, and sentenced to die.

But his owners didn't believe it of Bill. They weren't convinced he had killed the sheep. And what if he had? Was he—"dumb brute" that he is—amenable to the same laws that govern presumably intelligent humans? They took an appeal.

TODAY the appeal judge, Judge Henry R. Prewith, heard weighty arguments for and against Bill's continued existence.

Said W. B. White, attorney for the defense:

There is no existing statute under which a dumb brute can be tried for an act of its own, and the legislature is without authority to enact into law any provision interposing corporal punishment.

To take a dog's life would be a violation of the constitution....... The dog is property, and has the right to all property safeguards.

You might just as well try a sow who ate her pigs for infanticide, or a steer who invaded a cornfield not his own for willful trespass.

SAID Commonwealth Attorney W. C. Hamilton:

The dog. . . is not property in its original state, but becomes so only through the statute imposing a license tax upon it. . . . and is subject to be killed when beyond the liberty given it by law.

Its nature being dangerous, destructive and vicious, the law may protect human life and livestock against its assaults.

The trial judge had authority to try the case, from which there is no appeal, since a property value cannot be raised. . . .

And "Kaiser Bill," at home tugging on a chain, awaits the decision.

FEAR RUSE IN SANDINO "DEATH"

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—American marines today feared that reports of the death of the rebel, Gen. Augustino Sandino, might be a ruse. Yet around his mountain stronghold of El Chipote, the only evidence noted by marine aviators was that of death and desolation.

Sandino, if alive, it was believed, could have fled through the jungles to Honduras or down the Coco River to the Caribbean. The latter theory was held more likely, since the Honduran government promised to allow no concentration of rebels on Honduran soil.

Meanwhile, the marine garrison at San Rafael was ordered to investigate immediately any burial of prominent men there. The Nicaraguans, who reported Sandino's death to marine headquarters, declared that the general's wife, a government telegraph operator at San Rafael, took his body there for burial. Aviators observed what appeared to be a funeral procession.

Seeking confirmation of the reported killing of Sandino in the airplane bombardment of El Chipote Saturday, aviators flew over the district.

Doors of houses stood ajar or banged listlessly to and fro. No rebels were to be seen around the mountain. Roads leading to the northward toward Honduras showed signs of recent heavy travel. Vultures—black symbols of death—flew over the deserted stronghold.

BELMONT MILL ROOF BLOWN OFF BY STORM

GET SHOES FOR MINERS

CHARLES M. RICE REV. JAMES R. COX

Father James R. Cox, of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, is going to distribute 12,000 pairs of shoes to miners and their families. He preached on the suffering families of miners. A couple corner traffic cops, John Fogarty and Dennis Dwyer, of Grant street and Oliver avenue, wanted to do something. They persuaded the Endicott-Johnson wholesale shoe company, 519 Grant street, to donate the shoes and then they asked Father Cox to handle the distribution. C. M. Rice, of St. Patrick's Church, will have active charge of the distribution from the St. Patrick's School Building, Fourteenth and Penn, on orders from the miners' local unions.

$19,500 GIVEN WOMAN INJURED BY TROLLEY

A verdict of $19,500 against the Pittsburgh Railways Company and in favor of E. Bertha DeFord was returned by a jury in Common Pleas Court today. She testified that in 1921, as she was boarding a trolley, the car started and she was injured.

FOUR MACHINES WRECKED -:- WHEN AUTO RUNS WILD -:- ON BOULEVARD

CRASHES INTO THREE OTHERS

F. C. Anderson, of Hadden Hall, driver of this automobile shown above, was injured when his car was wrecked late yesterday in Bigelow boulevard by a wild driver who careened across the roadway, plowing into a Brink's Express truck carrying a $10,000 payroll and two other cars.

POLICE HOLD DRIVER

Murray Pennebraker, center, an insurance agent with offices in the Park Building, was driving the machine responsible for the smashup, police said. He had to be assisted to his feet by J. C. McKown, at right, driver of the pay car, after the crash. Police declared he could not explain how the accident occurred.

SCORES ENDANGERED

Pennebaker's machine was wrecked front and rear. He careened from side to side, narrowly missing several other automobiles and endangering the lives of a score or more persons.

CARRIED $10,000 PAYROLL

The express car carrying a $10,000 payroll was temporarily put out of commission. C. D. Ambright, one of the guards, is shown standing alongside of the machine. Pennebaker was charged with reckless driving and held under $1,000 bond. He will be given a hearing in Traffic Court Monday morning.

"GAS" TANKS MENACED BY FIRE

BIGELOW BLVD. REPAIR SHOP BURNS

A gasoline service station was endangered when fire swept the plant of the Eagle Vulcanizing Company, 3787 Bigelow boulevard, at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Starting in the basement of the one-story frame structure, the flames shot near to the tanks of the Amoco gasoline station adjoining. Firemen battled to keep the flames from reaching the gas tanks. A quantity of an anti-freeze mixture in the basement of the vulcanizing plant was said to be highly combustible.

Dense clouds of smoke rolled from the building and the nature of the material made the work of firemen hazardous and difficult.

The first was gotten under control quickly and firemen estimated the loss at $3,500, of which $2,000 was on the stock. Claire Reish and A. Joseph are proprietors of the vulcanizing company.

Much damage last night to small buildings and garages was reported. Trees were uprooted and breaking of light wires plunged several districts into darkness. Many windows were broken.

Clifford Kinsel, 29, of 18 Province street, was struck as he sat in his automobile in front of his home by part of a garage roof carried by the wind. His skull was fractured and he is in the Allegheny General Hospital in a critical condition.

Persons waiting for street cars last night were showered with glass when plate glass windows were shattered by the wind at the Helen Hat Shop, Sixth avenue and Wood street; McCreery's store and Campbell's, Fifth avenue.

Jennings was captured in Collingdale when he appeared at a street intersection to collect a dummy package which had been left for him. Brothers of the threatened girl and several Delaware county detectives seized him after a short chase.

The youth confessed, police said, to sending Collison a letter ordering him to leave $1,000 at the street intersection. He denied, however, that he had any intention of carrying out the murder threat in the letter.

By International News Service.

DEL MONTE, Cal., Jan. 29.—Protesting firmly that he was but the hired tool of a man " in soldier's clothes," Andrew Hennecken, 17, caddie of the Del Monte golf course, was today subjected to a searching police examination in an effort to identify the author of a $1,000 blackmail note addressed to Mrs. R. G. Tunnison, prominent society woman of Chicago.

Hennecken, suspected of being the author of the note, was captured by police when he appeared at the spot, designated in the note as the place where the money was to be deposited.

The note, scrawled in printed letters and decorated with a crudely drawn skull and crossbones, was found by Mrs. Tunison in the rear seat of her automobile. It threatens the Chicago woman with death if she disclosed its contents. Mrs. Tunison immediately turned the note over to police, and a foil was arranged which resulted in the youth's capture.

Young Hennecken told authorities that a man in soldier's uniform had paid him five dollars to go to the designated spot and collect the money.

HUNT COLUMNIST

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 29.—Frederick W. Enwright, newspaper publisher, of Lynn and Boston, and his wife and 19-year-old daughter were under police guard today as the result of a kidnaping complaint Enwright lodged with local police.

Kidnaped by a band of thugs led by a newspaper columnist formerly employed by him, the publisher said he was driven to a lonely camp in Nahant, was told he was to be killed for $25,000 and his body thrown into the harbor, but was released after agreeing to pay $1,000 for his life.

Frederick R. Dutton, 25, of this city, chauffeur for Enwright, was arrested on five serious charges.

Search was begun by police for the columnist and two other men kn[illegible] "Cannonball" and "The Sna[illegible]

"This is no publicity stunt. This is my life. They're out to get me. It looks as if they're going to," the publisher told police.

According to Enwright's sensational story, he asked his chauffeur to drive him from his Ocean avenue home to Boston.

Instead, according to Enwright, the chauffeur started along North Shore drive. The columnist and the two thugs—"Cannonball" and "The Snake"—swung up in another machine. The columnist leaped to the running board of Enwright's sedan and, getting inside, placed a pistol against Enwright's ribs.

The band took the publisher, he said, to a camp in Nahant, tied him up, discussed killing him, but finally allowed him to go on promise of $1,000 for his life. Once out of the hands of his kidnapers, Enwright appealed to the police and an investigation was immediately started.

DEMAND NOOSE FOR MATRICIDE

BRANDED WORSE THAN FIEND AT TRIAL

OTTAWA, Ill., Jan. 20.—Charging that Harry Hill, of Streator, Ill., had deliberately murdered his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, wealthy recluse, in cold blood and for the "sordid motive on money," State's Attorney Russell O. Hanson, of La Salle county, began his opening address to the jury here today and demanded the gallows for the youth.

"This man is worse than a Hickman or a Hotelling," shouted Hanson, as he shook his fist toward the chair where Hill picked at his fingernails in apparent unconcern. "He forged checks, he was recalcitrant and when rebuked by his kind mother, he returned around and murdered her—shot her to death. This the state will prove. Then to hide his crime he buried her body beneath the dusty basement floor."

TOSCANINI, ORCHESTRA LEADER, ARRIVES IN N. Y.

COURT NAMES MURRAY BOROUGH CONSTABLE

Joseph P. Murray was appointed constable of Wall borough by Judge James B. Macfarlane in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday to fill a vacancy caused by the failure of Thomas Joyce, elected in November, to qualify. George Warendas, Republican, defeated in November by Joyce, Democrat, was also a candidate for the appointment.

CRUSHING DEFEAT

here was that Small would appoint a successor, due to the tremendous majority against seating Smith.

The case against Senator-elect William S. Vare (Rep.) of Pennsylvania was practically settled by the Smith vote, according to leaders on both sides. The Vare case, however, was complicated by the contest filed against him by William B. Wilson, defeated Democrat. The Senate probably will not decide the Wilson contest for months to come, although it may act on Vare's right to a seat within the near future.

Different committees have handled the two questions. The Reed slush fund committee, which forced Smith's exclusion, has handled the investigation of Vare's campaign expenditures. It probably will recommend his exclusion, as a result of the outcome of Smith's case. The Senate committee on privileges and elections, however, is handling the Wilson-Vare contest and it probably will not have a report ready for months.

The resolution, which excluded Smith, first set forth in a preamble the results of the Reed committee's investigation. It charged Smith with spending $458,782 directly and indirectly to win the Republican nomination in Illinois in 1926. It set forth that $203,000 of this fund was contributed by the heads of public utilities while Smith served as chairman of the public utility commission. This action, it branded, as a "misdemeanor" under the Illinois law.

Senators voting in favor of the resolution to exclude Smith, were:

Democrats—Ashurst, Ariz.; Barkley, Ky.; Bayard, Del.; Black, Ala.; Bratton, N. M.; Broussard, La.; Bruce, Md.; Caraway, Ark.; Copeland, N. Y.; Dill, Wash.; Ferris, Mich.; George, Ga.; Gerry, R. I.; Glass, Va.; Harris, Ga.; Harrison, Miss.; Hawes, Mo.; Hayden, Ariz.; Heflin, Ala.; Kendrick, Wyo.; McKellar, Tenn.; Neely, W. Va.; Overman, N. C.; Pittman, Nev.; Reed, Mo.; Robinson, Ark.; Sheppard, Tex.; Simmons, N. C.; Smith, S. C.; Stephens, Miss.; Swanson, Va.; Thomas, Okla.; Trammel, Fla.; Tydings, Md.; Wagner, N. Y.; Walsh, Mass.; Walsh, Mont.; Wheeler, Mont.

Republicans—Blaine, Wis.; Borah, Ida.; Brookhart, Ia.; Capper, Kan.; Couzens, Mich.; Curtis, Kan.; Dale, Vt.; Frazier, N. D.; Gooding, Ida.; Howell, Neb.; Johnson, Cal.; Jones, Wash.; La Follette, Wis.; McMaster, S. D.; McNary, Ore.; Norbeck, S. D.; Norris, Neb.; Nye, N. D.; Robinson, Ind.; Steiwer, Ore.; Willis, O.

Farmer-Laborite—Shipstead, Minn.

Senators voting against the resolution to exclude Smith, were:

Republicans—Bingham, Conn.; Cutting, N. M.; DeNeen, Ill.; Fess, O.; Gillett, Mass.; Gould, Me.; Greene, N. H.; Hale, Me.; Keyes, N. H.; McLean, Conn.; Metcalf, R. I.; Moses, N. H.; Oddie, Nev.; Phipps, Col.; Pine, N. M.; Reed, Pa.; Shortridge, Cal.; Smooth, Utah; Warren, Wyo.; Waterman, Colo.; Watson, Ind.

Democrats—Blease, S. C.; Steck, Ia.

A last minute effort to seat Smith ended in failure when the Senate by a vote of 56 to 27, rejected a substitute resolution offered by Senator Deneen (R.), of Illinois, to administer him the oath and then refer the objections which had been raised to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. Four Democrats, Blease, Steck, Overman and Smith, favored this resolution, as did Borah of Idaho, all of whom favored administering the oath to Smith.

EXTRA $300,000 FOR COUNTY WORK APPROVED

COMMISSIONERS ACT UPON CONTRACT

Nearly $300,000 in extras for county improvements were approved and ordered paid by the County Commissioners today. The largest item was for additional excavation of slopes and the clearing away of two slides on the Fleming Park boulevard. The work cost $140,000.

Before the Liberty span is completed it will cost an additional $101,845 for steel, Director Norman F. Brown said, in asking the Commissioners to approve this item. The McKeesport-Duquesne bridge will entail an additional expenditure for excess steel amounting to $42,000 before completion. An added cost of $15,579 occurred in replacement of the old Sixth street bridge over the back channel of the Ohio River, to connect Neville Island with Coraopolis.

J. & L. BOOSTS STEEL PRICE

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, the leading independent steel producer in the local district, announced today that it will follow the advance in steel prices made yesterday by the United States Steel Corporation.

The new price increases the price of steel bars from $1.80 a hundred pounds to $1.85.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—Old Dobbin has passed out of official life in Greensburg. Council authorized the sale of a team of horses and other paraphernalia to a farmer for $400. By dispensing with the horses, Greensburg's street equipment is now motorized.

SIDEWALKS AT HOTEL ANNEX ORDERED

Orders that the contractors erecting the William Penn Hotel annex immediately place temporary sidewalks on the Grant street and Sixth avenue sides of the new structure were issued today by Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang.

The Director, issuing his instructions through Charles E. Hillegas, head of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, also told the latter to report at once whether other contractors in the downtown section are forcing pedestrians to walk in the streets.

The last report was asked because of information that the contractors of the new Monongahela National Bank Building on Liberty avenue have failed to provide temporary sidewalks for pedestrian traffic.

Orders to contractors to replace sidewalks torn up while building operations are in progress were issued some time ago by Director of Public Safety James M. Clark. Three, it was said today, have not complied with the order.

Pedestrians, as a result, are forced to compete with vehicle traffic in the streets and take chances on being hit by an automobile and splashed with mud and water.

CABBY ROBBED BY FARE

An armed Negro who hired a taxicab in the downtown district and who was driven to a lonely spot of the Cochran road, early today robbed David Johnson, of 7482 Delmar way, Swissvale, the cab driver, of $5. Johnson told police at the West End station that the Negro drew a revolver and forced him to turn over his money.

"Crashes" Police Station, Insists He's Drunk

Francis J. Zippler, 50, of 221 McKinley avenue, Avalon, almost "crashed" the Woods Run Police Station in the full sense of the term. He did it figuratively.

He climbed out of his automobile as it bounded against the front wall of the station and, Police Sergean Walter Stark declares, announced that he was "drunk" and wanted to give himself up.

He was taken to St. John's General Hospital and examined for corroborative evidence, easily secured, police say, and held for Traffic Court on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

FIND BODY IN MONONGAHELA

The body of an unidentified white man was found in the Monongahela River at the foot of Second street, Braddock, shortly after noon today. It evidently had been in the water for some weeks. L. E. Myers, of Braddock, found the body.

JUDGE DREW NAMES THREE NEW VIEWERS

Judge James B. Drew of Common Pleas Court has named E. Z. Smith, W. M. McJunkin and F. S. Haller to assess damages and benefits arising from the improvement of Mangold and Margold avenues and Vine, Hickory and Brush ways and Larkspur street, Munhall.

STORM CURES WANDERLUST

An all night tramp through muddy roads and in a downpour of rain after they had escaped the Boys' Industrial Home at Oakdale late Wednesday, proved too much for three boys, who finally telephoned the home and asked to be returned. They had intended to hike to the Western Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza, where they believed they would get "better service." The youths, Jake Wilseck, 15, of United; James Cope, 14, of Greensburg, and John Cochin, 13, of Monessen, were returned to their former lodgings.

BACHELOR ESTATE MUST PAY GIRL

Award of $82,500 to Miss Lena G. Galley, of Denver, Col., on order of Judge Thomas P. Trimble in Orphans Court today, echoed a romance in the life of William Sherman Gibson, wealthy McKeesport bachelor. Miss Galley's claim was on a note made by Gibson in her favor and found among his effects in a safe deposit box after his death.

Gibson disinherited his relatives, and, under his will made 25 years ago, named Miss Bernice McNulty, of Philadelphia, sole beneficiary to his $250,000 estate. It was with Miss McNulty the settlement of the note was made.

The will and the Galley note were found a long time after Gibson's death. Before the discovery of these papers, relatives already had taken out letters of administration to divide the estate.

$1,000 LOOT TAKEN IN 2 HOMESTEAD ROBBERIES

Automobile tools, valued at $1,000, and several pairs of blankets were stolen in two Homestead robberies early today. The tools were taken from the Davis Motor Company, 105 East Eighth avenue, and the blankets from the Chadwick Hotel, Ninth avenue and Ann street.

POLICE GRILL 5 SUSPECTS ON GANG WAR

With five men, believed by police to be leaders of rival underworld gangs responsible for a score of murders here, under arrest, detectives are now endeavoring to definitely connect their prisoners with several of the killings.

The prisoners are Ida Nichini, who conducts a rooming house at 820 Wylie avenue; her brother, Ray, 17; Peter Curatolo, 30; Luigi Piazza, 43, and Charles Spalino, 29, all of the Wylie avenue address, and Joe Maria, 34, of 27 Chatham street.

FOOTPADS BEAT, ROB VICTIM; 3 NABBED

Robbed of $276 by three footpads, who beat him with blackjacks and left him lying unconscious in Washington street, near Wylie avenue, early today, William Sanders, of 791 Fifth avenue, was reported to be in a critical condition in the Mercy Hospital. He suffered a fractured skull and a broken nose.

The attack was witnessed by Frank Malerbo, 15, of 812 Lamont street, who notified police.

A half hour after the attack Patrolman Thomas Flavin arrested three men who answered the description of the highwaymen. They were taken into custody near the scene of the attack and are being held in the Central Police Station on suspicious person charges. They said they were Frank Allen, of the Yoder Hotel, Arthur Haines, of 805 Watson street, and William Quailey, 26, of Chatham street.

Sanders identified Haines and Allen when they were taken to Mercy Hospital, police said, and they were held over when arraigned for a hearing. Haines is alleged to have changed his clothing in Quailey's home after the robbery.

SEIZE 3 STILLS IN FARM RAID

One still of 1,200-gallon capacity and two of 150 gallons each, were seized early yesterday by state police and constables from the office of Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, in a raid on the Anthony Bittner farm, near Glen Willard.

Bittner was arrested and held for court in $1,000 bail by Justice Morgan. The raiders say the complete distillery they found is a source for much illicit liquor sold on the North Side.

Allentown, Pa.—"I am very glad to tell how helpful Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was to me when I was a girl at home. Through overwork and overtaxing my strength I suffered a severe nervous breakdown, my whole system was in a rundown state. I was extremely nervous, had no strength, was tired, weak and all worn out, could not get rested or gain strength. My mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I was soon well and strong. It restored my nerves and corrected all my trouble."—Mrs. Samuel Pfeiffer, 536 Lumber Street. (Picture above.)

Robbers Don't Leave Even Door Keys

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 20.—Forward-looking robbers who ransacked the home of Henry A. Hufford, 1234 Leishman avenue, took the keys to front and rear doors along with rings, money and clothing of undetermined value when they departed.

To foil an expected return visit, Hufford plans to install new locks or bolts on his doors. The thieves entered the house by jimmying the front door, while Mr. and Mrs. Hufford were visiting at a neighbor's home.

DEER FRIGHTEN 'THUNDERING' PARK HERD

The county's bison herds in the North and South parks are weak sisters. As the herd of white tail deer was uncrated yesterday and turned loose in the game preserve with the bison, the "monarchs of the plains" looked the new arrivals over, turned tail and beat it. The same situation occurred when the first herd of deer was liberated.

The bison herd in the South park bluffed yesterday by the deer is the same bashful herd that went into hiding some time ago. Paul B. Iitis, director of the parks, refuses to believe that the bison herds are of the white feather variety.

"Just a little timid," the director said. "They will come together, and be good friends, before long."

TWO DEER DIE

The first casualties among the deer occurred yesterday when an animal in each park died. As they were being uncrated at the North park, it was found one of the animals had been gassed by fumes of the motor truck which transported the herd. The animal in the South park died from natural causes.

Another Indian chief wants to become a citizen of Allegheny county. Director Iitis has received application from Chief Good Shot, a Sioux, as caretaker of North park. The redskin is now in Chicago. In a letter accompanying his application Chief Good Shot said that he was a marksman of no mean ability, could do fancy roping and had a thorough knowledge of wild game. The chief attended the same Indian school with Chief Two Eagles, now caretaker at South park.

Director Iitis will stop off in Chicago next week en route to his home in Rochford, Ill., for an interview with the Indian.

HEIR MISSING, TITLE CLEARED

A court order giving Anna Friedeberg absolute title to a piece of property at 142 Fullerton street, has revealed that Ralph L. Young, owing one-sixth interest in it, has been missing since 1854.

Judge James B. Drew remarked there was little use of trying to find him. The order, presented by Attorney Joseph Schutzman, removes any cloud on the title of the property.

The property had been owned by Jesse Young who died in 1854. Since his death the property had changed hands five times and no one had learned that an heir was missing.

EXPERTS TO DISCUSS WAR ON "GAS" WASTE

Pratt, general manager, Motor Truck Association of America; Walter S. Laird, president Yellow Cab Company, representing the National Association of Taxicab Owners; Dr. Leonard Greenburg, representing the United States Public Health Service and the National Safety Council, and Alexander Silverman, University of Pittsburgh, representing the American Chemical Society.

W. VA. COUNTY OFFICIAL FOUND GUILTY, MUST QUIT

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 20.—Wiley L. Shepherd, county commissioner of Marshall county, was found guilty of misconduct yesterday, the decision carrying with it his removal from public office. Judge P. D. Morris suspended sentence for 40 days in order to allow an appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Wilbert L. Carmichael, a Mead district farmer, made the charge that Shepherd was found in a disorderly house. Shepherd denies all, blaming a political fight.

GETS $12,000 VERDICT AGAINST PITTSBURGH

Samuel Klieger, Irwin avenue, North Side, was awarded $12,000 in Common Pleas Court yesterday in his action against the City of Pittsburgh for property taken in the improvement of that thoroughfare. The viewers had awarded him $14,000. The verdict was taken by consent of both parties.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

MINERS' BENEFIT GREAT SUCCESS

A cold, uncompromising wind beat against the makeshift barracks that house Allegheny county's quota of striking miners' families last midnight. Inside those barracks thin partitions separated the sleeping quarters of families,

Downtown, in the comfortable, heated Davis Theater, sat 2,000 happy humans, watching, as midnight struck, ridiculously funny comedians, hearing happy-go-lucky songs.

A sad contrast? Perhaps. In the box office of the Davis Theater there were green bills piled upon each other—$2,000 in round, attractive numbers.

Those bills were to find their way to those barracked families in the shape of substantial food, warmer blankets for wind-driven nights and shoes and clothes for bewildered children and saddened mothers.

It was a benefit show at the Davis, presented by the Theater Managers' Association of Pittsburgh, for the families of these idle miners. The one admission price was $1 and there wasn't an empty seat in the theater. In fact, there were rows of standees that crowded into the house of mirth.

If these 2,000 or more spectators flocked to the Davis either because they wanted to contribute a bit to the miners' families or wanted to see a program of genuine entertainment, their desires were met. The show was a series of show-stoppers. Stars of the musical comedy field, of the revue and of the sturdy vaudeville stage strained to bring merited laughs and earned applause. They succeeded admirably. And they gave their talent for that well-known sum—nothing—and gave gladly.

In fact, they gave more than their talent. They started and contributed to a collection which brought $321 additional to the fund. Little Peggy Eames, who left Pittsburgh to become a child movie star in Hollywood, and now a vaudeville prodigy, led the collection by giving $20. Others of the cast dug down and as the audience left the theater they contributed freely. The fund, C. E. Smith, manager of the Davis Theater, had reached approximately $2,300 at noon today, with radio contributions still to be heard from.

More than those 2,000 contented theatergoers were appeased. A radio audience listened in.

Through arrangements made by the Theater Managers' Association, Station WJAS broadcast the proceedings. And over the air into many homes in this territory went at the same time an appeal for the radio listeners to contribute to this fund for the miners' families. The mails are expected to bring substantial returns from this source to the approximate $2,000 netted at the box office.

More than one act in itself justified the lowly admission price. Chic Sale, without competition in his rural characterizations, came from the Alvin and "Gay Paree," with Frank Sabys, Rita Gould and the Kello Brothers. From the Pitt Howard Thurston, master magician, trouped with a gay assortment of good-natured deception. The Nixon contributed a host of stars from "One Sunny Day"—Billy B. Van, Frank McIntyre rollicking master of ceremonies; Jeanette McDonald, Carl Randall and Peggy Cornell.

Loew's Penn sent Billy Randall and his talkative violin, the Manhatters Quartet and those 7-Ace Accordionists. And the sister theater, the Aldine, was well represented by Barrett and Cuneen, Smith and Hart and Castleton and Mack.

The Davis, besides contributing the use of its auditorium, gave ample talent in the Younger Foys, Guy and Pearl Magley, Yacopi Troupe and Al Gordon's Comedy Canines. Six Dixie Daisies, fresh as the dew, arrived from the Grand and from the Liberty came another sextet equally entertaining, Six Jolly Jesters.

The Schenley sent able representatives in Jack McClusky and company, and in the Sheridan Square's delegation were Mickey and Peggy from "Hollywood," Hal Wilson, monologist, and the blackface team, Fred and Jane Rinehart. The Harris maintained its reputation for entertainment by depending upon Gene Green, humorist-songster, and Rose and Rose.

The Green Cab Company contributed to the success of the show by granting, without charge, the use of its taxis for carrying the actors to the theater and back home after the entertainment. Sixty-five trips were made by the cabs.

ADMITS THEFT OF TROUSERS

Admitting, police say, that he was one of four boys who held up the store of Max Sthrerin, 5327 Butler street, yesterday and stole two pairs of trousers, Jacob Lee, 17, of 110 Home street, was held for court by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today. Charges of pointing firearms, breaking and entering and larceny were made. He is said to have admitted the theft of an automobile in Bigelow boulevard on Wednesday. Two other boys, Dominic Narr, 15, of 147 Almond way, and Martin Dailey, 15, of 101½ Forty-fourth street, his alleged companions, were turned over to Juvenile Court. Police are searching for the fourth member of the gang.

Cubans Polite Don't Speak of Nicaragua

HAVANA, Cuba., Jan. 20.—President Coolidge made a speech here and our diplomats are all here, so that means that Lindbergh will have to follow soon and get the people in a good humor again. I do know that these other nations are the politest people in the world. We have all been here five days and not a one has mentioned Nicaragua. It's like Dempsey being in a crowd and having no one mention Tunney. Suppose you read about what Michigan did with their child murderer. They sent him to jail for life before the newspapers could make him famous.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

Where Has My Youth Gone?

Face haggard and worn. Body always tired—too tired even to rest. That is the plight of many men and women today—aging long before their time because of a poisoned condition. The abnormal habits of modern life put too great a strain upon our vital organs, especially the liver. The liver becoming "limp" or sluggish, fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. Then a toxic or poisoned condition of the whole system that affects heart, blood pressure and blood vessels. The liver occasionally needs a little help and there's nothing better for this, as doctors agree, than ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning. Diexol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Diexol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few make a wonderful difference.

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

"Her Second Life" Bought For Pola Negri—to Reach Screen Under Title, "Three Sinners"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,

Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.

THE Armistice treaty following the World War, the resuming of diplomatic relations between France and Germany and America's little trouble with Nicaragua are as nothing compared with the purchase of "Her Second Life" for Pola Negri.

"Her Second Life" is a play with a part for a woman of Miss Negri's temperament. She wanted the play; so did B. P. Schulberg. But the authors, two Germans, with unpronounceable names, were unwilling to sell. The price kept going higher and for weeks the sale stood in the balance. This last week it was all cleared up with the result that Miss Negri goes to work the last of January with Clive Brook as her leading man and Tullio Carminati in one of the most important male roles.

"Her Second Life," as a title, never appealed to Miss Negri. It does sound a bit as though the heroine had returned from her astral body to take a new lease on life. A thing like a title, however, is easily remedied. "Her Second Life"—presto, change—becomes "Three Sinners." Roland V. Lee will direct, and all the rest of us need do is hope that the play will be worth all the trouble it took to acquire it.

Nothing annoys Charlie Farrell these days. Life is one sweet dream to him. His troubles with the Fox Company have all been ironed out and Charlie will sign a new contract in a few days. The contract is important, of course, but the biggest thing in life for him—next to his Ford car, is the opportunity given him to go abroad in June with the Frank Borzage Company to play the male lead opposite Janet Gaynor in "Blossom Time." One always feels, after talking with young Farrell, that youth is the most priceless thing in the world. This boy simply oozes boyish enthusiasm and interest. The one thing I wish for him is that he will never grow bored or blase. His happiness in his work might be a lesson to other actors who yawn at the mere thought of making pictures.

Sidney Chaplin has disappeared so completely from the motion picture colony in Hollywood that everyone has been asking what has happened to him. He is still abroad and still working in "A Little Bit of Fluff," a comedy based on an English play. Weather conditions, lack of studio equipment and the difficulty in producing in Europe has driven him from country to country during the nine months he has been working on his picture. People who have seen him abroad say he says nothing about returning to America. Wheeler Dryden, an English actor of talent, is assisting Mr. Chaplin as associate director. Mr. Dryden is a half-brother of the Chaplins and it was through him that "A Little Bit of Fluff" was purchased. He played in the stage production. Nearly everyone who goes to Europe to make pictures independently counters the same difficulties.

Seing Victor McLaglen on the set of "The Hangman's House" at the Fox Studio perfectly at home, I did a little sleuthing. I learned that Mr. McLaglen has replaced William Farnum in the male lead. Poor Bill Farnum worked one day and then he was stricken with a bad case of rheumatism. His doctor said it would be some weeks before he would be well enough to go on with the picture and we all know in these days of drastic economy no studio can afford to hold up a picture for more than a week. Tough luck for Mr. Farnum who was planning to return to the screen with this picture.

Funny how news of previews leaks out in Hollywood. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer took "The Trail of '98" all the way to San Bernardino, some 60 miles from Los Angeles. When they arrived at the theater, it was surprising how many Los Angeles people had heard of the private showing and were there to get a first peep at Clarence Brown's latest picture. Although the film in still in 16 reels and three cutters were at work on the train going down, I hear the reception accorded this film was one that astonished even the hard-boiled film folk present. They tell me it is a great picture.

Jack Dempsey lunching with Estelle Taylor and Chuck Reisner at the Montmarte gave me an inkling that Mr. Dempsey might mean business in pictures. Chuck directed him in the series he made several years ago. I was right—he was talking pictures with Mr. Reisner, and there is a very strong possibility that a picture will be started shortly—release to be settled later. Speaking of Mr. Reisner, I hear tell that "Steamboat Bill" is the best thing Buster Keaton has done since "The Navigator." I also hear tell Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer may sign him to do another Buster Keaton comedy.

Behind the Bars!

RICHARD BARTHELMESS has nice company in his prison—no other than Mitzi, musical comedy star. But it is a movie studio prison, Mitzi being a visitor during the making of a scene for the Barthelmess picture, "The Noose."

Operetta, Revue In Coming Bills

In the cast of "Countess Maritza," which comes to the Alvin Monday for a week's stay, are Walter Woolf, Odette Myrtil and Harry K. Morton, who originated their roles for the American production of this operetta. Others of the New York cast who will be seen here are Gladys Baxter, George Dobbs and Robert Greig.

Ethel Waters, Negro comedienne, will appear at the Nixon for one week only, opening Monday evening, January 23, in the in the Afro-American production, "Africana," Negro revue. "Africana" had a six months' run on Broadway.

Next Monday evening, Thurston, the magician, will begin the second week of his engagement in the Pitt. Thurston will entertain many school children, as well as grown-ups, at the matinee tomorrow.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Letitia Davis Phillips.

Mrs. Letitia Davis Phillips, 72, an aunt of James J. Davis, secretary of labor, and a well-known resident of Youngstown, O., died in the home of her daughter, Mrs. John E. Hughes, wife of the superintendent of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, 1416 Park boulevard, Dormont, yesterday. Mrs. Phillips had been making her home with her daughter in Dormont during recent years. She was stricken with a heart attack Tuesday morning. Born in Tredager, Wales, Mrs. Phillips came to this country when 17 years old, with her parents, and for many years resided in Girard, O. She was an active church worker and for more than 40 years was a member of the Elm Street Welsh Congregational Church of Youngstown. Her husband, William Phillips, died 15 years ago. She leaves one son, three daughters, two brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Anna Altman Young.

Mrs. Anna Altman Young, 73, died Tuesday in her home in Punxsutawney. She was the widow of Hugh Lowry Young and the daughter of the late Dr. William Altman, a pioneer physician of Jefferson county and a former member of the State Legislature. She received her education in private schools and was a past president of the Browning Literary Club and a member of the Baptist Church. She leaves four sons, two daughters and two sisters.

Mrs. Henry Rattelman.

Mrs. Louise Meyer Rattelman, 76, wife of Henry Rattelman, died Wednesday in her home, 434 Brownsville road, Knoxville. Mrs. Rattelman was born in Brownstown, now South Side, and moved to Knoxville 33 years ago. Mrs. Rattelman was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Mt. Oliver. She leaves her husband, two sons, three daughters, 13 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

ELECTION FRAUD CASE PUT OFF FOR WEEK

The first of many election fraud cases, scheduled for trial yesterday in Criminal Court, was postponed until next week. Five members of the election board of the Twentieth district of the Tenth Ward were to have gone on trial.

Counsel for the defense, Rody P. Marshall, was engaged on another case in Common Pleas Court, it was learned, when the postponement was granted. The defendants are E. J. Bennett, E. N. Fink, Michael M. Ankrems, Carrie Weaver and Jacob Stein.

The trial will be watched closely by the approximately 150 other election officers who have been indicted on similar charges. Thomas Cavanaugh, of the Allegheny County Elections Association, and William H. McNaugher, of the special election committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association, were on hand yesterday awaiting developments.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Emptiness of Pittsburgh's Social Calendar Suggests Sugarless and Meatless Days of War

THE emptiness of the social calendar tends to suggest to one the meatless and sugarless and wheatless days of the war. There is one big difference. During that time there was one sugarless day a week, perhaps.

Socially speaking, we are suffering more hardship now, for this week, with the exception of a number of attractive entertainments for Virginia Hill, whose marriage will take place Wednesday, has been eventless. A few midwinter weddings of exceptional interest are planned for the first week in February, and then the outlook is one of successive eventless weeks.

Frances Schoen, the charming daughter of Mrs. William Henry Schoen, of Fifth avenue, has planned a small home wedding. She will wed Lewis A. Park, prominent Pittsburgh business and club man, and one of the city's most eligible bachelors, on February 4. The wedding will be performed at 5:30 o'clock that afternoon by the Rev. Dr. E. J. Van Etten.

Frances is to have one attendant, Josephine Nicola, who will be maid of honor. Both girls came out several seasons ago. Alexander S. Hunter will be Mr. Park's best man.

Following the wedding will be a small reception in the home.

Mrs. William McBride and her daughter, Marie Boggs McBride, one of the popular debbies of the year, who recently returned from New York, are going to join the migration of the social world. On Saturday, January 28, Mr. and Mrs. McBride and Marie will leave for Palm Beach to remain there until early spring.

Mrs. Claude Freeman Pugh is leaving the end of the month, I hear, for Atlantic City, where she will visit her mother. Anne, her attractive daughter, who came out this season, will be graduated in June from Wellesley.

Soon there will really be no debutantes left in the city. Some are going abroad, some south, and a few after a gay debutante season confined perforce to the holiday season, have returned to cloistered walls and examinations and books.

The bridge Mrs. Taylor Allderdice will give on January 27 in her home for the buds will really be the last gathering of the debbies of this year. Florence Wainwright and Mary Mellon McClung are to be the guests of honor at this event, you will recall.

The Frederic Schaefers of Devon road have gone to California. Later they will visit Honolulu, I hear.

Martha Zilpha Christman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Percy Christman of Washington, Pa., is to marry Robert James Murray II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Murray of Thorn street, Sewickley, on Saturday night, February 4, at 6 o'clock in her home. Invitations to the wedding have been sent out by the Christmans.

A card party for the benefit of the Pittsburgh Home for Babies will be given February 3 in the Hotel Schenley. Mrs. W. B. Carson is chairman for the affair and Mrs. Moses Pickering is vice chairman.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Esther R. Kamerer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton I. Kamerer, of Murtland avenue, and W. Raphael Conrad, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Conrad, of Kentucky avenue, which was solemnized by the Rev. Dr. W. W. T. Duncan, pastor of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church. Miss Marie Kamerer and Oscar Conrad, Jr., were the attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Conrad will make their home in Lehigh avenue.

Miss Helen Schmadel, chairman of the decoration committee for the third annual ball of the Seton Hill College Alumnae Association, which is to be held February 10 in the Roosevelt Hotel, will be aided by Miss Mary Walsh, Miss Kathryn Faragher and Miss Rita Kahl.

The Pittsburgh Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta will meet tomorrow afternoon in the home of Miss Catherine Cole in Amelia street, West Park, when scrapbooks will be made for the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Va. The association is planning a get-together party to be held March 17 in Oppenheim-Collins' for the alumnae, active members and pledges and their mothers.

The advisory senate of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association is to give a dance and card party in Moose Temple, Penn avenue, on Tuesday night, January 31.

The sixteenth annual "forward" masque ball is to be held Wednesday night, February 1, in Syria Mosque. A beauty contest for young women is to be a feature of the affair.

D. OF C. CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY OF GEN. LEE

Robert E. Lee was not a unique character nor a stray meteor, but a familiar, steady light whose course had been charted for centuries by the astrologers of heredity, said the Rev. G. L. McMillan, of Dormont, formerly of Mobile, Ala. Mr. McMillan was speaking at the annual luncheon of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, commemorating the birthday of the famous Southern general. Mr. McMillan went on to speak of Lee as a soldier, saying history has placed him with the greatest and shown that he might have been the military dictator of the South but that he was "a loyal son of civil authority."

In introducing the speaker, Mrs. Robert F. Metcalfe, president of the chapter, commented on the fact that it was Lee's military genius and strategy which had been studied by the Allied armies during the World War. The afternoon's program also included readings by Mrs. Donald C. Todd and violin numbers by Mrs. Myrtle Bierer Bryce, with Mrs. George Morse as accompanist. The Rev. Dr. Robert Nelson Meade, chaplain of the chapter, pronounced the invocation. Red and white, the Confederate colors, were seen in the table decorations of carnations and red candles and the five flags of the Confederacy stood in a base with the Stars and Stripes. The affair was held at the Hotel Schenley, with covers for 25.

An audience that filled the Twentieth Century Club auditorium yesterday afternoon thoroughly enjoyed the original program which was presented by the drama committee. The parlor musicale, for which the singers appeared in the unlovely costumes of the nineties, was directed by Mrs. Thomas K. Cree and opened the program. Next came a solo dance, a "rythmic poem" by Mrs. Frank R. Stoner, Jr., and folk songs by Mrs. William Booth, and then "The Perennial Meeting," depicting a meeting of the "Fourteenth Century Club," and including in the lines many good-natured flings at conditions as they are at the Twentieth Century Club, and especially directed at the lectures. A "Mammy Monologue" by Mrs. Jacob S. Payton, in which she appeared as a Negro laundress, was richly humorous and was accompanied by a dancing chorus. The "country choir" was as distinctive for its costuming as it was for its harmony, but the "super-cinema," which concluded the afternoon, was perhaps the most ludicrous of all the numbers. It told the tale of "Little Nell and the City Slicker," and it, too, was posed by club members, with some outside assistance.

A clever and unique exposition of "Food" as a hobby was given yesterday before the Epoch Club by Mrs. Lamont H. Button, who brought her subject from its earliest times to the famous chefs of recent years. Mrs. E. E. Baker spoke of music and other arts, showing the close relationship between them, and the biography of Alice Freeman Palmer, written by George Herbert Palmer, was discussed by Mrs. Morris Slocum. Mrs. Edgar R. Wall of South Lang avenue was hostess.

CONTINUES ALL DAY TOMORROW

Everybody couldn't come today—though it seemed, to look at the crowd, that everybody must be here. Plenty of things doubtless prevented—the size of the crowd would in itself deter many. Impossible to serve many more had they been here—the amount of selling in a given space and time is of necessity limited—now, great opportunities remain for tomorrow's shopper—plenty to provide for all.

Tomorrow a continued Remnant Day—so much to sell that it couldn't all be sold in a day—so great diversified lots out for tomorrow. Fact is, much that has been handled and mussed a bit is Re-Red Inkt at prices that will sweep stock clean tomorrow. You'll pick up values that will surprise you—every department is participating whole-heartedly—don't be tardy if you want first choice. No mail, phone or C. O. D. orders.

U. S. DIPLOMATS SOOTHE LATIN RESENTMENT

HAVANA PARLEY IN FRIENDLY ATTITUDE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HAVANA, Jan. 20.—The threatened Latin-American insurrection against the Latin-American policy of the United States appeared today to be pretty well squelched. Yeoman diplomatic work has been accomplished by the American delegation since its arrival in Havana to deal with the Sixth Pan-American Conference. As a result of this work, the conference swung into the committee stage today with most of the opposition elements in a friendly mood.

Mexico's delegation, for example, is so friendly that Ambassador Dwight Morrow is returning to his post in Mexico City this week-end.

Nobody believes that Ambassador Morrow would leave vacant his chair in this conference and return to Mexico City if there was any likelihood of Mexico's delegation upsetting the international apple cart at Havana.

Similarly with other threatened controversies, Charles Evans Hughes, who admittedly is the outstanding international figure in the conference, graciously declined to serve as chairman of either of the most important committees of the conference—those dealing with the codification of public international law and with the future status of the Pan-American Union.

Mr. Hughes pleaded that his duties as chairman of the American delegation would prevent his giving adequate time to the work of the committees, and instead of Mr Hughes accepting the honors himself, he nominated for chairman of the international law committee Dr. Gustavo Guerrero of Salvador, who has been among the most vigorous critics of United States policy in Nicaragua and through Central America generally.

Dr. Guerrero was highly pleased by the compliment of being chosen chairman of the most important committee of the conference. It is this committee that will have to deal with the question of whether, under international law, the United States has or has not "invaded" Nicaragua by the dispatch of thousands of marines to occupy the towns and insure a "free election" next year.

The first chairmanship of committee which Mr. Hughes refused was that of the Pan-American Union. This is an important committee, if for no other reason than that some of the smaller countries of Latin-America are insisting that the union be removed from the category of an international debating society and given power to supervise such things as the present American military occupation of Nicaragua.

This chairmanship was given to Enrique Olaya of Colombia, who, within his diplomatic limit, has not entirely approved of American policy in Nicaragua and elsewhere in Latin-America.

The granting of chairmanships of important committees to Latin-Americans, and particularly those who might be unfriendly, rather than to the large and imposing delegation which the United States has brought to Havana, has created a most favorable impression upon the delegates.

Men and Women! How Much Weight Would You Like to Quickly Gain?
One Very Thin Man Gained 28 Pounds in Eight Weeks
A woman quickly loses her charm and attractiveness when she gets below normal weight.
Her health also is apt to suffer and that means a decrease in energy and vivacity.
Some women have become so thin that people call them scrawny or skinny. Many underweight women are more to be pitied than blamed—they don't know what to do to gain flesh and attractiveness.
People are underweight because the food they eat is not assimilated—does not get into the blood to build firm, healthy flesh.
Correct this condition and weight will undoubtedly go to normal and that haggard look and flabby skin ought to disappear.
Burl Craig, of Indianapolis, speaks highly of McCoy's Tablets as a builder of weight and strength.
Read This Letter:
"I highly recommend McCoy's Tablets. They have helped me wonderfully. Before I took them I felt tired and run-down and lazy and didn't want to do a thing but lie around, now I feel fine and work all the time and have gained both weight and strength, thanks to McCoy's Tablets."
McCoy's Tablets are sugar-coated and easy to take—old folks and children who are run down and thin take them readily, but read McCoy's fair and square offer.
McCoy takes all the risk—read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking four 60-cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or two one-dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least five pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.
The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

Jumps Around Like A Two-Year-Old—Little Green Capsules End His Rheumatic Pains
McCulloch's 10 Convenient Drug Stores Offer 5-Day Trial on Money-Back Basis
There's nothing in the World that brings such quick and complete relief from the pain and misery that makes life almost unbearable as those tiny green capsules known from coast to coast as Allenrhu Number 2.
More than one man and woman whom horrible rheumatism has been carrying down to helplessness—suffering the torture of the damned can testify to this.
All you have to do is to take one tiny capsule each hour for the first ten hours, the next day one every two hours for 14 hours, then take as directed.
Don't think, however, that Allenrhu Number 2 stops at just giving relief. Its continued use for a few days after the pain has disappeared helps banish from your system the poisoning that causes the trouble and thus prevents an early return of the awful torture that makes your very existence a burden.
In spite, however, of all the claims made for Allenrhu Number 2—in spite of the remarkable results obtained by others these little green capsules must prove themselves in your particular case. For that reason McCulloch's 10 Convenient Drug Stores, and good druggists everywhere, have been authorized to make this guarantee: If after taking one full bottle Allenrhu Number 2 as directed you are not satisfied—go back and get your money.

Sore throat waits here also
After long exposure to bad weather, after sudden changes of temperature, after mingling with crowds—gargle with Listerine, the safe antiseptic, when you get home.
This pleasant precaution has nipped many a cold and sore throat in the bud, before they became serious.
Listerine, being antiseptic, immediately attacks the countless bacteria that lodge in the mouth and throat where so many colds start. It is important, however, that you use it early—and frequently.
Most of the fall and winter months are "sore throat months" and for your own protection use Listerine night and morning. It is a good habit to acquire. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

HIS SYSTEM WAS FULL OF POISON
Ten Herbs Ended Constipation, Indigestion and Biliousness
"I was troubled with constipation for a long time," was the statement of Mr William Jeffries who lives at 3 Gruver Street, Alden, near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Avenue,

MR. WILLIAM JEFFRIES

Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating the popular medicine, Ten Herbs. "By not getting rid of waste matter, my whole system became saturated with poison," continued Mr. Jeffries, who works in a coal mine. "I lost my appetite, and what little I ate would sour on my stomach. I would bloat with gas, which would work up around my heart and cause palpitation. At night I would wake up two or three times and find water running out of my mouth. My liver was inactive. I had bilious headaches and dizzy spells. Sometimes black spots came before my eyes and blurred my vision. I did not sleep well, because of nervousness. The least thing would excite me. My kidneys were not in good condition, and I had to arise several times every night. At times I had rheumatism so badly I could not walk or raise my arms.
"After taking Ten Herbs I enjoy my meals without any sign of indigestion. My bowels have been regulated and my liver and kidneys are working fine. Biliousness, dizzy spells and black spots before my eyes are gone. My nerves are stronger, and I sleep well. Rheumatism has been greatly relieved, and I have full use of my arms and limbs. Ten Herbs seems to have given my entire system a thorough cleansing and I feel better in every way. I am pleased to endorse Ten Herbs to the public."
Try Ten Herbs if your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are not working the way Nature intended them. It is purely herbal and pleasant to take.
The Ten Herbs Man is at the May Drug Store, 52 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

URGES PAROLE POWERS FOR JURIES

In cases where life imprisonment is the penalty, juries should have the right to determine whether the defendant shall or shall not be eligible for parole or pardon, according to an opinion expressed by Attorney W. Rody Ruttenbusch, in an open letter to the six state senators from Allegheny county.

Pointing out that when a first degree murder verdict is found, the jury under the present laws must determine whether the penalty shall be death or life imprisonment, Ruttenbusch suggests the laws be amended to give the jury power to block future paroles or pardons.

"It seems to be plausible that life imprisonment, if it really imprisons the criminal for the term of his natural life, will eventually eliminate the need for capital punishment," he said. "The chief objections to 'life imprisonment' in Pennsylvania are that the system of pardons and paroles offers a constant hope to the criminal that he may once more be set free, that sentiment sometimes frees a dangerous criminal and that the parole and pardoning power has been greatly abused by influence and pressure."

Rait was remanded into the custody of Inspecor Marshall pending the filing of a $1,500 bond for his appearance before the Circuit Court.

Judge Schoonmaker said the District Court, on the defense made, had no jurisdiction to interfere.

Acrobatics as Taught at Brooks And Advancement to Use of Better Planes

The life of a military aviation cadet at Brooks Field was not one continuous round of delight, as Lindbergh described it in his chapter of "We" in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday. For the new men the first order to take the stick was trying if not hazardous. Yet there were amusing incidents to relieve the tension, as when one man, having difficulty in landing, on his first "solo" tried to stay up until the gasoline supply was exhausted. The flying tests and other exactions quickly "washed out" the less fit and "Lindy's" class was reduced by two-thirds of its original number. But in it all Lindbergh discerned that our Army aviation schools are the best in the world.

Army Schools Aviation Best

CHAPTER XIII.

WHEN the solo flights were more or less successfully completed the flying instruction was divided into two periods of 45 minutes each. One of these was used for dual and the other for solo practice.

An instructor would attempt to smooth out the rough points in his students' flying and demonstrate the method of going through new maneuvers so that the cadet could be given the opportunity to go up alone and try out the maneuvers for himself.

One of the first lessons was the "three sixty"—so named because its completion required a total change in direction of 360 degrees. The cadet would take off and climb to 800 or 1,000 feet. The higher he went the less difficulty he had in properly completing the maneuver. Then he would fly into the wind directly over a landing "T" in the center of the field. As the plane passed over the "T" he throttled his motor and made a quick bank either to the right or left depending upon his preliminary instructions. The object was to make a complete circle and land without using the motor, bringing the plane to a stop beside the "T."

"One eightys" were the next requirement and they were probably the cause of more crashes than any other maneuver. They were started in the same manner as the "three sixty," but with the plane heading down wind and at only 300 feet altitude. They required quick manipulation of controls and a steep bank into the field just before landing.

Next came acrobatics. Loops, spins, barrel rolls, Jenny Immelmans, figure eights, wing-overs and reversements, every one of which each cadet had to master thoroughly during his course at Brooks.

Pranks at Barracks

After the first few weeks had passed we became more or less accustomed to life in the cadet detachment, and found a little time now and then to look around the country and even spend a night in San Antonio. Our examinations were purposely given on Saturday morning so that we would not spend the week-end studying. It was well known that too much studying affected a cadet's flying and the school schedule was arranged with that in mind.

"Our day began with first call at five forty-five and flying started about seven. At eleven we returned to the barracks and from one to five o'clock was devoted to ground school. After supper we could study until bed check, at 10 o'clock. Plenty of sleep is a necessity for the student pilot, and that fact is recognized nowhere more than in the army schools. Every week night at 10 o'clock the cadet officer of the day checks each bunk and turns in the names of any vacant ones.

Some of our academic subjects, such as aerodynamics and machine guns, required nearly all of our time after school because of approaching examinations, whereas others were comparatively easy and the classroom instruction was sufficient in itself. When we were not studying there were always plenty of other things to attract our attention. If one of the boys left the post, as sometimes happened, he often returned to find his belongings heaped together in the middle of the floor with the army cots piled on top. Several times some cadet returned at midnight to find his equipment carefully transferred and set up on the roof in the mess-hall. Another one of the favorite sports was to put a hose in the bed of a sound sleeper at 2 a. m., or, if he slept with his mouth open, to fill it from a tube of shaving cream or hair grease.

Scorpion in Bed

One of the fellows found a scorpion in his bed and each night for a week thereafter looked through the bedding for another, but finally became careless and forgot to look. His nearest neighbor promptly placed a number of grasshoppers between the sheets near the foot of the bed.

Another evening it was reported that three polecats had crawled into a culvert in front of the barracks. For an hour we attempted to smoke them out. When that failed the fire department was called and we washed them out. The smoke had evidently taken effect, however, and soon three dead polecats came floating out from the culvert. The next problem was how to make use of such possibilities. That question was worthy of most careful consideration. After a survey of the barracks we found that our cadet first sergeant was in San Antonio. There was scarcely one of us who did not have some small score to settle with him, so we took one of the pillows from his bed and after removing the pillow case, let it "fraternize" with a polecat and then replaced it on the first sergeant's bunk. The results were far above expectation.

One by one the occupants of that bay arose and carried their cots outside, until by midnight, when our sergeant returned, there were only a half dozen bunks left, including his own. By that time the odor had permeated through the other bedding, and he was unable to locate the pillow as being the primary cause of offense. Any night for nearly two weeks thereafter our first sergeant and his cot might be located out behind the barracks, and the inspection of quarters, which was to have been held the following morning, was postponed indefinitely.

Cross-Country Flights

During our last weeks at Brooks life became much less difficult. Most of us who had survived the check pilots and "Benzine Board" were reasonably sure of graduating, and although our studies were just as exacting as ever, we were able to absorb them much more easily. Also, we had passed our primary flying tests and were making cross-country flights in T. W. 3's, and learning formation flying in Voughts. And, finally, we were given a few hours in De Havilands in preparation for the advanced training at Kelly.

We were paired up for the cross-country flights. One of us flew on the way out, while the second acted as observer. On the return flight we traded about, so that each achieved an equal amount of experience, both as an observer and as a pilot. The trips were usually laid out in a triangular course, and included landing at each corner of the triangle.

While on one of our first trips from the home airdrome, we landed in the designated field alongside of a road just as a load of watermelons was passing by, so we carried several of them back to the detachment in our plane.

Always there was some new experience, always something interesting going on to make the time spent in Brooks and Kelly one of the banner years in a pilot's life. The training is rigid and difficult, but there is none better. A cadet must be willing to forget all other interest in life when he enters the Texas flying schools, and he must enter with the intention of devoting every effort and all of the energy during the next 12 months toward a single goal. But when he receives the wings at Kelly a year later he has the satisfaction of knowing that he has graduated from one of the world's finest flying schools.

CLUE HERE TO LOST SMITH GIRL FAKE, HUNT SWINGS TO NEW YORK

"Missing Student" Registered at Local Hotel Proves to Be Buyer From Canada.

"That's her," was the prompt reply of Miss Anna Ryan, William Penn Hotel cashier, last night as she compared her mental picture of a young woman who had checked out half an hour before with a photograph of Miss Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith College student.

The girl had been at the hotel since Wednesday, registered as Miss Faye Neal, of Toronto, Canada, but no particular attention had been paid to her until a telegraphic "tip" that the missing college girl, for whom a $10,000 reward has been offered by her wealthy New York broker father, was in town.

But the bird had flown when the "tip" was received.

A long-distance telephone call to Toronto brought the information that Miss Faye Neal is a buyer employed by a Toronto firm of jewelers and was in Pittsburgh on business.

Mrs. A. J. Hopkins, of Amherst, Mass., a friend of the Smith family, a guest at the hotel, overhead hotel employes describe Miss Smith and their description of a ring convinced Mrs. Hopkins that the trail was "hot." She even made arrangements to send a facsimile of Miss Neal's signature to Miss Smith's parents and wired them last night that she was endeavoring to trace the girl.

A Sun-Telegraph reader, who asks that his name be withheld, tells of seeing a girl resembling Miss Smith:

"I boarded a Baltimore and Ohio local at West Newton last Monday at 6:52. It was on the main line and a passenger then on the train might have come from anywhere east. Across the aisle from me was a girl who drew my attention sharply, for several reasons. She had a violent spell of coughing, which lasted perhaps 20 minutes. The girl, evidently from good family, was exceedingly well dressed, except for her shoes, which were worn and covered with mud. She had a small, old, black handbag.

"At McKeesport she was hesitant about leving the train—she didn't move as does a person who knows where he's going. The next day I saw a picture of Miss Smith. Today I saw other pictures and a complete description. Except for two things, the description tallied with that of this girl. The one on the train seemed a bit more 'squarely' built and her hat was brownish, one of those close-fitting ones, on her reddish hair. The face of the girl on the train was the face of one who'd been through something."

Can't Explain

ANNE S. MORROW

Anne S. Morrow, daughter of the ambassador to Mexico, was one of the closest friends of Frances St. John Smith, missing college girl. She is unable to explain her chum's mysterious disappearance from the school dormitories, Northampton, Mass. Police have sought the Smith girl for one week without avail.

Brother Leads Search in Gotham as "Tips" She Was Seen There Flow In.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The search for Miss Frances St. John Smith, 18-year-old student, who vanished from Smith College a week ago, swung back to New York City today with the arrival here of her brother, St. John Smith, Jr., and a private detective.

Their hurried trip from Northampton, Mass., where the search has centered, stirred rumors that Frances was being held captive by abductors waiting for a further increase in the $10,000 reward offered by the girl's father.

Another report was that the young student has sought seclusion in a thickly populated neighborhood where she was likely to remain unrecognized.

The movements of St. John Smith, Jr., and his companion today were cloaked in mystery. They refused to divulge whether they had any new information or clues.

From various sources reports continued to pour in police headquarters that Frances had been seen in this city.

Mrs. Pauline Goaub of New Rochelle declared she met an excited girl at an elevated station here last night who resembled published photographs of Miss Smith.

William Batchelder, chauffeur for a New York-Boston bus company, said he had carried two young women passengers from Boston to New York, one of whom fitted in detail with descriptions of the missing girl.

In the hope that searchers would redouble their efforts, St. John Smith, New York broker and father of Frances, has increased his offer of reward to $10,000.

'ATTACKED' GIRL ARRESTED

Naomi Shaulis, 17, of Chalfant street, Wilkinsburg, who recently made serious charges against C. B. Trout, Wilkinsburg restaurant owner, her former employer, last night was held for further hearing by Justice of the Peace George B. Shields on a charge of incorrigibility, preferred by her parents. Miss Shaulis was arrested Wednesday night in Rankin with Miss Dorothy Mewherter, 16, of Latrobe. The Mewherter girl is being held by the Rankin police pending a hearing. Trout was held for court by Justice Shields on testimony of the Shaulis girl.

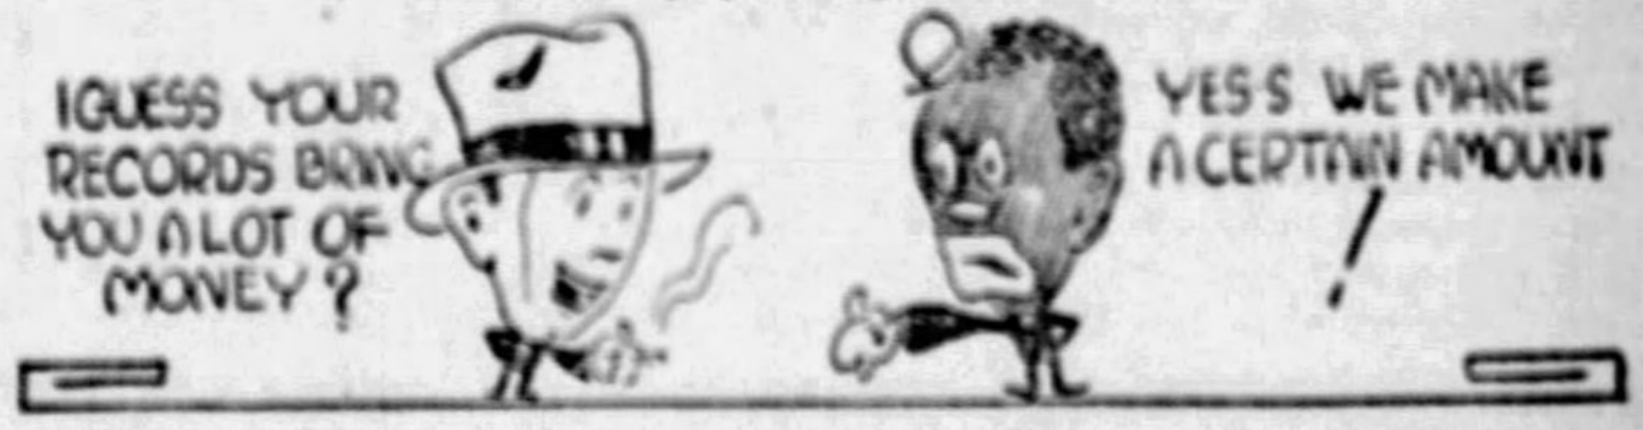
SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH
by Harvey J. Boyle

NEARLY everyone has heard of Moran and Mack, black-face comedians, who recently became wealthy with a series of "Two Black Crow" records. When they were in Pittsburgh recently it was learned that Mack owns the act and pays his partner a salary.*



I GUESS YOUR RECORDS BRING YOU A LOT OF MONEY?
YES'S WE MAKE A CERTAIN AMOUNT!

CHIC SALE, one of the greatest comedians on the stage, is at the Alvin this week. Man and boy, we have been watching and hearing him for many a year. He came to the Davis a few years ago, and although we had seen him often, we went again to see his act. His was the only act on the bill we cared about. As soon as his act was over we left. We consequently missed the act following him, Gallagher and Shean. They were then just coming into fame. No one in Pittsburgh had heard much about them. At least their name on the program meant nothing. Wonder where they are now?

DOUG BUCHANAN died recently. He was a walking encyclopedia of baseball lore and Pittsburgh reminiscences. He went back to the days when the ball players wore sideburns; when the pitchers took a hop, skip and jump before throwing the ball, and when the catcher was the only player who wore a glove.*

Here's the other: At the desk of Capt. Harry Bunting, in the office of the delinquent tax collector, Walter Christy, Joe Kane approaches. WE THOUGHT we'd do Chinatown the other night. Picked out a Chinese at Second and Grant and said: "Allee same-ee speak-ee Englis'," we ventured. That was the way those sinister Chinese on the stage of the old Bijou used to talk. Better luck the next time.

NATURALIST DETAILS EXPEDITION EVENTS

The thrilling journey of the Morden-Clark expedition over the Himalaya Mountains, through Chinese Turkestan, into the Tien Shan range and through the Turfan depression, 980 feet below sea level, and to Biisk in Siberia, was told last night before a large audience in the lecture hall of Carnegie Museum by James L. Clark, assistant director of the American Museum of Natural History.

Motion pictures taken in the blizzards sweeping through the 18,000-foot high passes of the Himalayas and in the excessive heat of the Mongolian desert, were stirring chronicles of the expedition. Search and killing of the Ovis Poli sheep was the purpose of the expedition, which covered 7,900 miles from Bombay, India, to Pekin, China.

Lily Gets New Clothes For the Party At Sue Cain's

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILLY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees down town when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. He tells her that he is going to sell it to finance a piston ring that he has invented, and he and his cab vanish from the streets. Lily misses him terribly, and decides she cares too much for him to marry Staley Drummond. But Mrs. Lexington announces the engagement, and the date of the wedding is set for June tenth. Then, on May tenth, Mrs. Lexington hires a new chauffeur, and it is Pat France. Lily tells her mother how much she cares for Pat, and Mrs. Lexington humiliates him so that he leaves the house. Lily leaves with him, and the next day she marries him. Lily asked to clerk in the Frances' grocery, decides to leave Pat. They make up and she tries to make the best of her position. Lily tries to get her clothes from home. She is invited to a party at the Jetterson's home and sees Elizabeth Ertz. She quarrels with his mother, and they take a little flat by themselves. Lily refuses to get his breakfast. So he goes to a nearby lunchroom for it, and one morning, when he and Lily have quarreled because of the lack of clean clothes for him, she follows him to the little restaurant to make up. She finds him having breakfast with his old sweetheart, ELIZABETH ERTZ, a nurse. Elizabeth is just leaving when Lily begins to accuse Pat of infidelity to her. Finally, Pat takes her home and tells her that she must trust him. Lily tries, and things go smoothly for a while.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

ON THOSE nights she sat alone, trying to read. She never had cared much for books though, and time was heavy on her hands.

About once a month Sadye and Roy Jetterson would come over to take her and Pat for a drive or for two hours at the pictures.

They saw nobody else. The France family sent a silver-plated coffee set for a wedding present, but they never came to the house.

Lily did not realise how lonely she was until one day in late September, when she was down town on her way to pay the electric light bill. Pat and she paid cash for everything. "Then we don't spend so much," said Pat, still with his great ambition in life—to make the piston ring a huge success and make money for himself.

"So I can buy you everything that Staley Drummond ever could have given you," he told Lily.

On this particular September morning when Lily stepped from the Boyle street car into the down town crowds the first person she saw was Sue Cain.

Sue did not see her. She was hurrying along the sidewalk with a bundle in her arms, bright color in her cheeks, and the tails of her silver-fox scarf flying in the wind.

Lily flew after her. . . . Oh, it was good to see somebody whom she really liked again! Somebody from the old life she had left behind her when she married Pat! The old wonderful, easy-going life of the Montpelier road neighborhood.

"Sue!" she called, and Sue turned quickly, her eyes dancing when she saw Lily.

"Why, how lovely to see you!" she cried. "I've thought about you so much lately—I even looked in the telephone book for your number. You don't mean to say you haven't a telephone. I called Mrs. France and she said you were keeping house by yourselves."

"No, we haven't even a 'phone," said Lily, lightly, as if it were a joke not to be able to have a telephone.

"I've just been getting some favors for a bridge party I'm having this afternoon," Sue ran on. "The caterer forgot to send them—and I was so afraid they wouldn't—"

Then her expression changed. "Why don't you come and play cards this afternoon?" she asked. "Ann Barney can't come—you could play in her place—"

"I'll be there!" Lily told her, suddenly excited at the thought of seeing the old crowd once more.

Then she thought about clothes, remembering Sue's silver foxes and her new fall hat of black satin. . . . But there were only $9 in her hand bag.

An hour later she stood at the credit desk in Angouleme's smart shop waiting for a box of clothes that she had charged to "Mr. Cyrus Lexington, Montpelier road."

She had not charged anything to him for a long time, and she wondered if that was why it took so long for the okeh on the charge to come through.

Presently the girl behind the desk picked up the house telephone and talked into it in a low tone for a minute or two. Then she looked up at Lily.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but the manager has been talking to Mrs. Lexington, and she says Mrs. Patrick France cannot charge things to Mr. Lexington."

And while Lily stood there, too stunned to speak, she turned away to speak to another customer. . . . Her back was turned, and there on the desk lay the boxful of clothes tantalizingly within reach! Lily stretched out her hand towards it.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

WITH her fingers almost touching the box, Lily began to argue with herself.

"Suppose I take it," she thought. "I might be arrested for a thief."

Then another thought came to her: "But they never would arrest me—not in this shop!" . . . Why, she had been buying clothes here in Angouleme's for years and years! They ought to have been ashamed to even telephone her mother to ask whether she still could charge clothes to her father or not!

"I'll just take them, anyway," she finally made up her mind, "and worry about it afterward."

The girl in charge of the credit desk still had her slender back turned towards her, and without another thought Lily picked up the big pasteboard box and walked swiftly out of the store.

One or two of the black-clad saleswomen nodded to her as she went past them. . . . She had known them for a long time, and they did not stop her.

There was a taxicab in the street. Lily hailed it, and in two minutes she was on her way home with the box in her arms. She laid it down on the seat beside her and peeped into it to see that everything she had ordered was in it—a golden brown chiffon dress with a fur-trimmed velvet coat to match. A golden brown hat of satin. A handbag of brown suede with a lace-edged handkerchief and a small bottle of "Blue Star" perfume in it.

It was half past one when she unlocked the door of the little flat.

Sue's bridge was at 2.

"I can just make it if I hurry," Lily said to herself, turning on the water in the bathtub and laying out fresh underthings that she had washed and ironed with her own hands.

She could have swept tears of humiliation over the hands, themselves. They were bruised and cut and stained from all the bangs and hard work of housekeeping—from the scouring of knives and the peeling of vegetables.

"Never mind, I can manicure them a little in the cab," she said to hrself. She had kept the cab, and she could hear it throbbing and panting in the street outside the house as she dressed.

The golden-brown clothes were wonderfully becoming, and Lily spraying Blue Star perfume on the lining of her new hat, felt very well pleased with herself.

"I got them the only way I could have got them," she thought. "If I hadn't walked out with them, I couldn't have gone to Sue's party." And, even if a store detective came for them he wouldn't take them away, now that she had worn them. . . . Besides, Lily knew that her father would pay for the clothes rather than let her be disgraced.

"I'll call him up from Sue's house," she decided, "and ask him to call up the store and tell them it was all right for me to take them."

Yes, that was the thing to do! It was best to play safe. But when she reached Sue's house she forgot all about doing it.

She was late, and the guest room upstairs, where she went to leave her coat and powder her nose, was filled with girls—with her old friends.

They pounced upon her with surprised squeals and shrieks when they saw her standing in the doorway of the big, luxurious room:

"Why, Lily Lexington, where did you drop from?"

"Girls, look who's here? Just LOOK—"

"For goodness' sake, if here isn't the runaway bride"—and so on.

They might have failed to send her wedding gifts or to have anything to do with her since her marriage to Pat. But, now that she was actually among them again, they were as friendly as ever.

"Aren't you thinner than you were?" Sue's cousin, Jeanne Angell asked her, and Lily laughed and told her that she certainly was.

"If you got down on your knees and scrubbed a kitchen floor and a bathroom floor every morning of your life, you'd be thinner, too," she said, and while she was saying it, she felt as if she were talking about some other woman—some other woman who had to pack Pat's lunchbox every morning, who had to scrub floors and iron shirts and darn socks.

It seemed so natural to be here with these people she had known for years. To sit at a card table, holding a hand of bridge, and nibble chocolates from a little silver dish or light cigarets from a little silver alcohol lamp beside her.

The fall day was cold, and when the game was over the tea tables were drawn up before the wood fire and Sue poured tea and chocolate and whipped cream on the top of it, and served little cakes and sandwiches.

"Oh, Sue, it's so heavenly to be in a place like this again!" Lily sighed to her when everyone but herself had said good-bye and gone. "I'm so used to getting up at 6 and working like a Trojan all day in that flat with not a soul to talk to but the janitress and the grocer's boy that I'd forgotten life could be easy and soft like this—" She looked around the big room where the firelight shone on silver picture frames and vases of deep red roses, on brocaded chairs and tables of inlaid wood.

In the hall a silvery-noted bell chimed 5.

Five o'clock. . . . Time to go home and start Pat's supper. Time to peel the potatoes and put them on to boil. Time to set the table and cut the bread. Time to fill the water pitcher and put it in the icebox. . . . Time to go back to the never-ending round of drudgery.

For the first time in three months, Lily hated the thought of it. This little taste of luxury and pleasure had seemed to wake her up to the fact that there was nothing pleasant in her own life but Pat.

Her lovely eyes, fixed on the dancing yellow flames in the grate, clouded with discontent.

"Much as I love Pat," she said to herself, "I hate being a poor man's wife."

"Jack and I had dinner with Staley Drummond the other night," Sue was remarking as she blew a long plume of cigaret smoke from her lacquerred lips. "He wondered if I ever saw you."

Lily did not answer. . . . She had not heard Staley's name in weeks, and he was becoming simply a memory to her. Some figure out of a story book, and having nothing to do with the very real problem of buying food, clothes, drugs, newspapers and moving-picture show tickets on Pat's little salary.

"He asked about me?" she wanted to know. "Oh, Sue, I was dreadful not to tell him about Pat during all that time when I was engaged to him, wasn't I?—I didn't play fair with Staley."

"No, you didn't play fair with him," Sue, all frankness, answered her. "But—do you know?—I think he still cares a lot about you. Jack and I were talking it over the other night, and Jack thinks so, too."

I mean he's getting DOWN to the PRACticable SIDE of this comPANionate MARriage of ours, my dear—can you BEAR it? But he HONestly IS, my dear, because the other NIGHT he entered into this treMENdous disCUSsion with me about how it was going to work OUT, sort of, do you know what I mean? And I give you my WORD, my dear, I NEARly had hysTERics because, of course, the FIRST thing he thought of was MEALS, my dear! Isn't that JUST like a MAN? I mean I can't think of ANYthing more unatTRACtive than to have to think about MEALS and I bet it's just THAT, my dear, that spoils HEAPS of MARriages, but I mean, of course, in the comPANionate marriage arrangement you don't HAVE to think about meals or anything unroMANtic like that because you're either living with your HUSband's family or your OWN or something and somebody ELSE has to worry about the MEALS, but ARab WOULD bring that UP, my dear—he's just the TYPE! But, GOSH, my dear, I simply can't underSTAND why people think about EATing and things like THAT when they're planning to get MARried because there's simply NOTHing that could disCOURage a girl MORE than to have the MAN she was about to MArry start in WONdering about MEALS and things before the WEDding because I mean WHAT could be more unroMANTIC, do you know what I mean?"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

Madge Is Warned to Safeguard Mary Harrison Against Eleanor Lincoln.

I WAS so relieved by my mother-in-law's decision that it was advisable to continue the acquaintance with Eleanor Lincoln upon the same basis on which it already rested, that for a second or two I did not grasp the significance of her prohibition concerning Mary. When the meaning of her words did dawn upon me, I looked at her in amazement.

"You mean that you think Miss Lincoln might try to do Mary some physical injury?" I asked.

She compressed her lips firmly before she opened them to speak again.

"I wouldn't put anything past that girl," she said. "In the first place, I think she either always has had her way, or else she has been so held down that she is abusing some sudden freedom. That arrogance of hers, though she tries to conceal it, comes from one of those two things, you may depend upon it."

Not for the first time I marveled at the way my mother-in-law's observations and deductions dove-tailed with my own. I had found the same thoughts concerning Miss Lincoln when I opened the compartment of my brain where I had filed away my consideration of the puzzling problem the girl presented. But I did not agree with the premise that Eleanor Lincoln would offer physical violence to anyone who displeased her or thwarted her purpose.

That the idea was fixed in my mother-in-law's mind, however, I realized as she went on.

"In the second place," she said, "she's got the idea in her silly head that young Veritzen would make a good pet poodle for her to drag around. To do the chap justice, I don't think he's lifted a little finger to attract her—he's too much in love with Mary to look at anybody else, but that doesn't make any difference with a girl of Miss Lincoln's type. The more indifferent a man is, the more she is attracted by him. And she would be absolutely ruthless to anyone who she thought was in her way."

She extended her hand toward me warningly.

"Promise me, Margaret, that you will look out for Mary with that Miss Lincoln," she said. "Lincoln! I could scream every time I hear the name applied to her."

"I promise, of course," I said readily, for I was sure that I would have no trouble in keeping my promise. Mary had no desire, I knew, for any tete-a-tete with Eleanor Lincoln.

"Then that's all that is necessary," she said, "except that I would advise you very strongly to be on your guard at all times when you are at The Larches, when that girl is here, or when you are out on any excursion together. And I wish you would tell me of any discoveries you may make."

There was an unconscious wistfulness in her voice which aroused my compassion. I remembered the avidity with which she always listened to any account of Lillian's activities or mine in the secret service during the World War, remembered also the kindly subterfuges which Lillian used to use in order to make Mother Graham believe she also was aiding the secret espionage work in which Lillian was engaged.

"I shall tell you anything I find out, you may be sure," I told her, and meant the words, for I could see no possible reason why I could not keep my promise.

It's a glorious country down in the South of Arizona—an open country that basks in the warm sunlight, welcoming you to come and luring you to stay. The soft air has a tonic quality—health-giving—invigorating.

The South of Arizona is a strange and "different" country. Deserts of mystery and color—valleys of perfect peace—mountain ranges. Fig trees, olives, orange groves, cotton. Yucca and the columnar sahuaro.

A delightful place to stop off on your way to California, or to linger for the entire winter season. Hot springs—famous resorts—sports. Dude ranches, informal, full of vigorous outdoor life, moderate in cost. Ride every day.

Science's Attack on High Blood Pressure Problem

DR COPELAND

IT seems to me I get more letters about high blood pressure than anything else. Almost everybody past 50 gets more or less "hypertension," as high pressure is called by the doctors.

It is difficult to know why this symptom comes. There may be no direct reason for it, but it is here. As a result, the head feels full and dizzy, mental activities are slowed up, and old age seems to come on apace.

High blood pressure was considered to be one of the signs of kidney trouble. The more recent view is that the kidney disturbance follows the hypertension.

It makes no difference why it comes, high pressure is a nuisance and every reasonable effort should be made to reduce it. To this end better living is demanded. Late hours, alcoholic abuse, overeating, worry, hard work and all the things which lower vitality, must be given consideration.

We have a number of glands, the thyroid gland in the neck being one, which are called "ductless glands." They differ from the thousand and one other glands in that there is no passageway to the surface through which the fluids of the gland are emptied.

These glands are like inland lakes we know about—lakes having no apparent inflow or outflow. They are entirely landlocked.

The ductless glands get rid of their fluid contents through the blood. Absorption takes place and, in consequence, glandular secretion, which possesses the possibility of powerful action upon the machinery of the body, is freely circulated through the blood vessels.

It is believed that the heart's action, the breathing, and many other vital functions are stimulated or controlled by these chemical or vital agents. If there is too much of one secretion the blood pressure is high and without it, the pressure is low. In a similar way other functions are affected.

There is one phase of this question which is rarely considered: I refer to the effects produced by the secretions of one gland upon all the others. If one fails all suffer. There must be a balance of activities and to have such balance all must function.

An eminent scientist, whom I know, is working day and night upon this problem and has been for a number of years. He appears to be near a solution. When he presents his method, if it succeeds, we will be near a cure of several of our ailments, including the control of high blood pressure.

If you are suffering from some ailment, heretofore considered hopelessly incurable, don't give up in despair. There is hardly a disease but is receiving the daily study of some scientist or group of scientists. Before it is too late in your case you may be made to rejoice because the remedy has been found.

The important thing is to keep out of the hands of unscrupulous persons who exploit the incurables, charging outrageous prices for nostrums that have no value and which could not possibly do a particle of good.

But you and your friends should encourage, support and applaud those workers who are striving to do away with human suffering. I pray that the high blood pressure symptom may yield to these advances. I believe that it will.

In the meantime, live moderately, eat temperately, avoid harmful practices. Keep teeth and all the organs in good condition as possible. Get sunshine, fresh air and all the happiness possible.

What Is This Mysterious Substance In Liver That Restores Thin-Blooded Weak People to Robust Health?

The price of liver has gone up in New York, Baltimore, Detroit and in other cities where physicians keep abreast of times.

There's a reason.

For if you don't know—You ought to know—that science has discovered in beef and calves liver a "Mysterious Substance" that by actual test has succeeded in restoring to good health thousands of weak, thin blooded, wornout people.

So leading physicians the country over are advising their run-down, thin blooded patients to eat more liver for better health, more energy and greater vitality.

So wonderfully efficient is this "Mysterious Substance," that in many hospitals that dread disease, Pernicious Anemia, has been successfully treated and overcome.

The "Mysterious Substance" in liver is something like the vitamines extracted from Cod Liver Oil, but most scientific investigators claim for it even greater potency and rejuvenating power.

But getting into the system this potent "Mysterious Substance" by eating liver is recognized as a slow process—too slow for the average eager American who wants to get well speedily.

So one of the best known laboratories in America, after prolonged experiments, succeeded in extracting from fresh beef liver the vital elements and put up this extract in concentrated form, very palatable and even pleasant to the taste.

And rundown, thin blooded, sickly men, women and children have taken this concentrated elixir which has been named Hemo-Liver and have regained their health and strength.

Hundreds of physicians are prescribing it. You can go to any druggist who is at all progressive today and get a big 12-ounce bottle of Hemo-Liver that will last you eight days.

A tablespoonful is a dose and you'll have to eat a lot of liver to get as much of this red blood-making "Mysterious Substance" as you'll get in one tablespoonful of Hemo-Liver.

Indeed its powerful efficacy is so apparent that one bottle or eight days' treatment, often brings such a big improvement in health that both patient and Doctor are astonished.

Its success as a maker of rich blood and to bring strength, vigor and vitality to those who are anemic and run down is so certain that pharmacists sell it with the distinct understanding that if one bottle does not help you—wonderfully—your money will be refunded.

What is this "Mysterious Substance"—? No one seems to know—but as one great New York newspaper stated editorially—

"The secret of how this "Mysterious Substance" rejuvenates the corpuscle factory still eludes the searchers but the victim of the disease will not worry about that. What matters to him is that now he can be cured."

How a woman may look when her blood is thin and weak—and the change that takes place when the blood is rich and red.

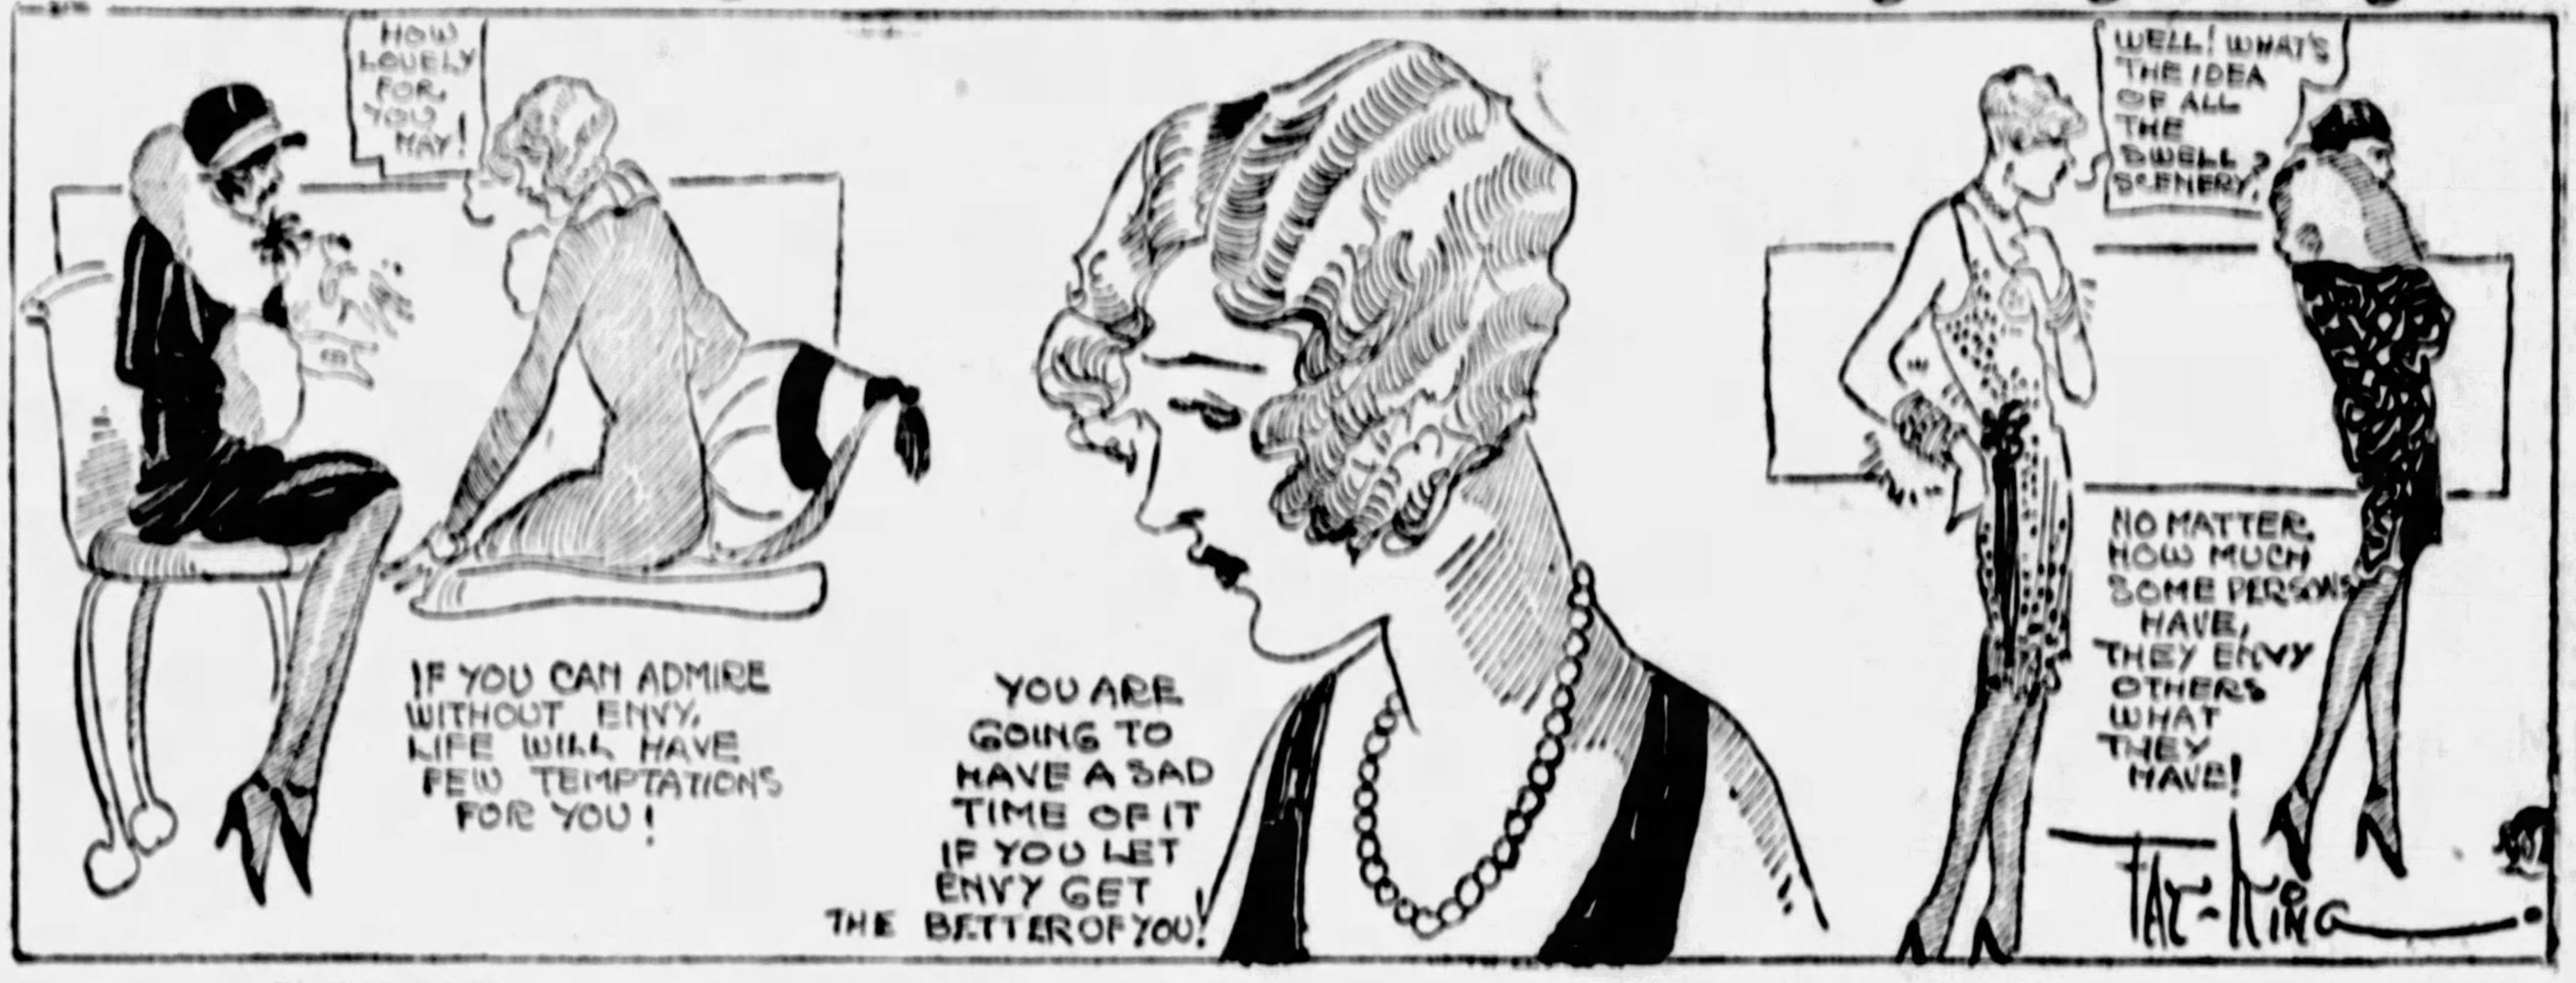
Evil of Envy Called Real Disease by Fay King



HOW LOVELY FOR YOU MAY!
IF YOU CAN ADMIRE WITHOUT ENVY, LIFE WILL HAVE FEW TEMPTATIONS FOR YOU!
YOU ARE GOING TO HAVE A SAD TIME OF IT IF YOU LET ENVY GET THE BETTER OF YOU!
WELL! WHAT'S THE IDEA OF ALL THE SWELL SCENERY?
NO MATTER HOW MUCH SOME PERSONS HAVE, THEY ENVY OTHERS WHAT THEY HAVE!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

ENVY is a peculiar disease of the mind which afflicts persons in all stations of life. It has a tendency to overestimate others' possessions and to underestimate one's own by comparison.

It afflicts those of influence as readily as it does those who have little, and it causes great misery to those who suffer from it!

No matter how much these unfortunate ones may have, they instantly resent seeing even a few of the good things they already possess in the possession of others!

They are utterly unable to admire without envy, and cannot rejoice in any success or good fortune that may come to another, no matter how deserved it may be or how hard the other has worked or saved for it.

It is sometimes exhibited in the star who so readily resents any applause or notice on the billing that is given to another!

It is often expressed in the matron who forgets for the moment her beautiful home and all its fine and costly furnishings when she views a lovely lamp made by her neighbor's own hand.

A woman may have five fur coats of great value and still envy the first and newer coat her friend may have.

There is much misery in life for those who suffer from envy. It is an invisible thorn in their hearts.

Be thankful if you are spared the tortures of envy. Life will have few temptations for you, and much rejoicing if you can share the happiness of others without resenting any of the good fortune that has come to them.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

TO A woman, love is a triumph and marriage a victory; to a man, love is a defeat, and marriage a surrender.

Half a love is better than none; indeed, in the opinion of most men, it is better than a whole lot.

* * *

Man cannot live without woman! He can always find another man who will listen sympathetically to his troubles; but only a woman who loves him will sit all evening and actually rejoice while he talks about his triumphs.

HELEN ROWLAND

Petting is the direct result of the low-rate of present-day intelligence. When two heads are perfectly vacant, they just naturally droop together—and petting fills the vacuum.

"There is always a blonde in a man's life"—until some Titian-haired woman decides to push her out of it. A blonde is just an "innocent bystander" when a red-haired woman gets started!

A woman can spend a whole week at her mirror, and never attain the sweet, innocent, kissable look that a man has in his evening clothes, just after a bath and a shave. But, alas, the average wife sees her husband in his evening clothes only about a dozen times a year—and the rest of the time her love has to live on memory!

The modern youth spends half his time in "hating women"—and the other half in taking their telephone numbers.

A really sick man is one who doesn't even know whether his nurse is a blonde or a brunette. A dying man, is one who doesn't care!

Those whose birthday it is stand at the threshold of a year of change which may bring advantages if carefully and steadfastly handled rather than abruptly embraced. Patience may win against impulses and hasty methods.

HARRY HAS FLASK, EDNA GUN; NABBED

Edna Freidel, 23, of 510 Foreland street, who had a revolver, and Harry Herman, 30, of 834 Vista street, who had a half-pint of something when they were arrested in the City-County Building, offered explanations in Morals Court today.

Edna explained that she had gone to the building to "see Bob Murray, Republican chairman of the Twenty-third Ward," to see what could be done about having a fine remitted. She had been penalized $50 as the keeper of a disorderly house. Harry was with her, it seems, to introduce her to Murray.

Edna said she had found the revolver in a taxi. Incidentally, it was the driver of that cab who told police of a gun-toting woman at liberty in the city's front yard.

Magistrate A. D. Brandon fined Herman $10 for carrying something on the hip and held Edna for further investigation.

SHOTS and PASSES

by Julius Levin

THE Goldensons of the South Side, who withdrew as a member of the P. & O. League recently, will open an extensive independent schedule tonight when they meet the Ritz club at the South Side Market House.

The Ritz club is composed of colored passers who have been defeating the best teams in this vicinity and it is expected to extend the South Siders to the limit tonight.

Tomorrow night the Goldensons will invade Sharon where they meet the Protected Home Circle quintet on the Buhl Club floor. The Mercer countians include in their lineup Petey Siegle, former star of the A. P. Moore club of Pittsburgh.

Next Wednesday night the Goldensons will face another strong opponent when they meet the Hickory A. C. at Hickory, Pa.

THE Broadway Club of Beechview has made preparations to handle a capacity crowd of divided supporters tonight when they meet the Goose Goslins, a sectional rival, in an Allegheny County League battle on the Broadway floor.

The two teams from across the Monongahela have staged some hectic battles this season and if they put up their usual brand of basketball tonight fans are going to witness a nip-and-tuck contest.

The Goslins shape up as one of the strongest teams entered in the second round of the Allegheny County League race and they will be out tonight to continue their unbroken string of victories. Broadway on the other hand is eager to make up for reverses suffered in the first part of the schedule.

DRIBBLES

The Pittsburgh Railways basketball team of the Philadelphia Company League will invade the Center Avenue Y. M. C. A. gym tomorrow night to meet Manager Nunn's Ritz passers.

Reliance Life of the Commercial-Industrial League has been awarded the Goldenson franchise in the P. & O. League.

Two important games are scheduled at Fifth Avenue High School next Monday night. The Philadelphia Company girls clash with the Mellon Bank girls in the first battle while Philadelphia Company opposes the House of Service team in the main attraction. The last-named game is a Philadelphia Company League contest.

The Sumner Somerman Club evidently is bent on making up for early season reverses, judging by its showing in the second half of the P. & O. League. The Columbus Temple passers added another impressive victory to their string last night when they defeated the McKeesport Junkers.

The Faith Chapel passers are continuing their wild dash to the championship of their class, scoring their ninth successive victory by defeating the Rooney Reds, 25 to 19. The Faith Chapel team is in the City Junior League.

ZIVIC TO BOX LIGHT

ST. PAUL, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh and Billy Light, St. Paul welterweight, were signed today for a 10-round bout here January 27.

East Votes No Change

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—The old bugaboo about eastern control in various branches of sport has bobbed up again.

Earlier in the winter it figured in the reorganization of the football rules committee along more representative lines. Now it concerns tennis and an attempt to reduce the dominant position of eastern members on the executive body of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

To those who know their tennis troubles it isn't strange to find Big Bill Tilden identified with the forces seeking a change in the constitution of the U. S. L. T. A. That would cut down Eastern control. Big Bill is an Easterner himself, but his bloodless tilts with the so-called old guard of tennis have become an annual affair.

The source of this control which Tilden and his friends apparently desire to lessen, if not actually break up, is the presence of so many ex-presidents from the East on the executive committee of th U. S. L. T. A. There are five now, all residents of the East. With the retirement of Jones W. Mersereau of New York, after a three-year term as president, the number will be increased automatically to six, including four from New York. Mersereau's successor, furthermore, will be another Easterner, Samuel Collom of Philadelphia.

The issue will be carried before the annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. February 11, when a proposal will be made to limit to two the number of ex-presidents any section may have on the executive committee.

From the sentiment which has come to the surface so far it appears likely, however, that the old guard will muster sufficient strength to defeat this recommendation.

As might be expected, the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association, most powerful voting group in the U. S. L. T. A., has already gone on record as opposed to any change in the present scheme of representation. It is more significant, however, that the California Tennis Association also has decided to support the existing scheme of administration. This decision was reached by the Californians in spite of agitation by Tilden and his friends to gain support for a change.

As it stands now, the Western Association, with headquarters in Chicago and the Philadelphia district, Tilden's own bailiwick, probably will be the only leading groups supporting a re-allignment.

OHIO BATTLERS GET VERDICTS

Cowboy Cannell, Youngstown battler, hit too hard and too often for Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, last night in the final 10-round bout on the card at the Palisades and handed the home boy a lacing.

In the first 10-round bout, Al Dundee, of Mansfield, outboxed and outsmarted Andy Tomosky, of Wilmerding, and won another victory for Ohio. Tomosky tried to slug with the Ohioan, who tied him up and outboxed him throughout.

In the second bout, Joe Hoak, McKeesport, won the judges decision over Joe Randall, of Elizabeth.

Referee Red Robinson stopped the scheduled four-round bout between George Peck, of Pittsburgh, and Jimmy Barrett, McKeesport, in the third round, awarding the fight to Peck on a technical knockout. Barrett was in a bad way and the referee deemed him unable to continue.

ITALIAN FLOOR ACES RANK WITH BEST

By JULIUS LEVIN.

HAVING won recognition in the major leagues as a result of the exploits of Ping Bodie, Babe Pinelli and Tony Lazzeri, Italian athletes are making a determined effort to gain prominence in the basketball world, and, judging by the success of the sons of Italy in the Greater Pittsburgh district during the last three years, they compare favorably with the best in the section.

For a number of years Pittsburgh Italians were satisfied ever to rely on Phil Gentille, one of the greatest floor stars ever developed in this vicinity, to represent them on the pine court, but lately they have been producing floor stars in large numbers.

Gentille not only ranked as one of the best scholastic stars in this section when he played at South High School, but he continued his outstanding work in the professional field with Pitcairn and the Amerita Club. This year he is playing with

Buc Icers Outshine Champs

By CARL W. SHATTO.

LUSTY and prolonged cheering reminiscent of the days when Pittsburgh's skaters were amateur kings shook the rafters of Duquesne Garden last night as the Pirates reaped the harvest of a brilliant, smashing and sustained attack by denting the crown of the world's champion Ottawa Senators with a 3-1 Pittsburgh victory.

Concentrating their withering fire in the second period, the Bucs first wiped out a one-goal advantage the ice czars had gained in the first stanza, and then kept up the "pace that kills" until they had dealt the invaders a mortal wound in the

NOW WITH DUKES

Pete Collodi, a member of the Duquesne University varsity squad, started his floor career with the Sianos. Collodi has shown enough with the Dukes so far to warrant his retention on the varsity squad. Phil Aiello now is playing with the Pitt Freshies, after several years of success with the Mieles. He is one of the best Italian stars developed hereabouts in recent years and his friends are predicting a varsity berth for him next winter.

HUSTLING MANAGER

H. M. Delmanto, manager of the J. J. Mieles, has been handling the reins of the P. & O. League champions since their organization several years ago. A popular pilot who boasts numerous friends in the independent field, he has no difficulty booking first-class opponents for his club.

SHINES AT GUARD

George Delvicchio, Siano Club guard, is not a player of the flashy type, but has shown enough in the P. & O. League to rank among the most dependable performers in the loop. A splendid defensive star and a good shot, Delvicchio is an important cog in the Siano machine. Tony Siano is the backer of the team bearing his name in the P. & O. League.

STAR FORWARD

Billy Cotz is playing a fine game at forward for the Siano Club of the P. & O. League. A midget in comparison with some of his heavier and more rugged opponents, Cotz makes up for his lack of weight by playing a brilliant floor game.

John (Bunions) Aiello, one of the veterans of the J. J. Mieles, who can play every position on the court with equal success. He formerly held down the center position, but has been playing guard and forward since the addition of Zuke, who is playing the pivot berth in an excellent manner. John's brother, Phil, is playing with the Pitt Freshmen after a successful career with the Mieles.

Panthers to Oppose Veteran Team

By JESS CARVER.

CALVIN BOLSTER and Roger M. Baird, the two members of the local referees' body whom one instinctively calls "Mister," have a tough ball game to handle this night, Cal and Roger, or, as the boys in the back rooms call him, Buck, are the officials in charge of the Pitt-West Virginia game out in the Stadium Pavilion, the game that will find the swashbuckling Panthers pitted against the sternest opposition they have faced since returning from that famous invasion of the Western Conference.

Tonight's game, a Big Four affair, brings to Pittsburgh one of the three strongest fives in the Tri-State district. West Virginia, with a smart, veteran squad, and with four fine victories packed away already, stands a fair chance of upsetting the Panthers' apple cart, which so far, hasn't even been shaken by the opposition that the Golden Cats of Doc Carlson have been furnished.

Coach Stadsvold of the Mountaineers called his squad together this season and found he'd only lost a single man from last year's good team. He lost Ashworth, who captained the Morgantownites in 1926-27. He found Meisel, Black, Capt. Truehart Taylor, Hageberg, Glenn and Radcliffe all set and raring to go—and after a few weeks' preliminary drill, he put 'em on the court and they have "gone" ever since. Wesleyan, Salem, Carnegie Tech and Allegheny have all fallen before the attack of West Virginia. The list is not near as formidable as the one that Pitt can show you as having been defeated, but never the less, four victories are four victories in any man's league, and if, by a sterling defense and a dashing and accurate offense, they can top the Panthers tonight, they will be setting rather pretty, both as Big Four and non-Conference title possibilities.

Last season the Mountaineers came here singing "Hail West Virginia" at the top of their voices and beat Carlson's team, 29-26, in a hectic contest. A few weeks later, however, with a vastly improved attack, Pitt went down to Morgantown and knocked off the West Virginians by a 10-point margin. This defeat, incidentally, clouted the Mountaineers out of the running for the district championship.

CUP GAME TO HEAD LOCAL CARD

By TOM BIRKS.

THE National Amateur Cup tie game between the present champions, Heidelberg, and the Pittsburgh Celtics will head the soccer card for the Pittsburgh district this week-end. The game is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and will be played at Lawrence Park.

Heidelberg is now at the top of its form, all parts of the machine working in great fashion, and the team as a whole looks good.

Can the Celtics hold that forward line led by Buff Donelli? That is the question that will have to be settled before the game in the minds of the Celtic followers. Donelli and his comrades are playing wonderful soccer and getting plenty of goals, and this counts a lot in cup tie warfare.

The Celtics have a real good cup tie outfit and the fans feel that Thompson and his boys will give the champs a good battle.

The game is scheduled to start at 3 p. m. and there is every indication of the season's record crowd being on hand. Pittsburghers have little chance to see Heidelberg in action on Saturdays, but this is a good one. Manager Edwards of the Celtics is making preparations to handle a large crowd and if the day is a good one all previous records will be broken for attendances in the Strip.

form of a 2-1 Pirate lead. That second 20 minutes, into which the Pirates crowded more skilled batting and more thrills than ever had been seen before in a like period in the history of the ice game here, marked the turning point and the high spot of the spectacular fight.

Clancy, in the first period, Milks and Darragh, in the second stanza, and McCaffrey, in the final 20 minutes, were the boys who contributed the goals.

Fist fights, hot verbal exchanges, skillful passing, accurate shooting, riotuous rooting and body checking that would have moved a basketball referee to tears all were crowded into the season's ice classic. It is to be regretted that the National Hockey League does not favor a split season, for in last night's triumph the locals outshone the most brilliant foemen that have shown on Pittsburgh ice.

Not all of the glory of a great fray, however, goes to the men of Cleghorn, for Ottawa's champs played in a manner befitting their high station. Entering the fight without the services of their poke-check king, Frank Nighbor, who is incapacitated by an eight-inch gash in his right leg, the Senators gave the Pirates a scare in the first period, and plenty of opposition throughout.

The advantage, if there was any in the furious play of the first few minutes, was with the Bucs. Milks was the first to threaten with a hot shot that bounced off Goalie Connell's pads after traveling not more than 10 feet. Cotton, a moment later, gained possession of the puck at the goal mouth when Connell was prostrate on the ice, but he was smothered by Ottawa defenders before he could let go a drive. When the Pirates forward line went to the relief of the starters, Herb Drury proceeded to "steal the show" by repeatedly wresting the puck from Ottawa attackers in mid-ice. His poke-checking was so effective that he appeared to be an improved model Nighbor.

After the Senator forwards had hammered in vain at the Bucs' goal, the defense men, Boucher and Clancy, came to their aid. Boucher met with only indifferent success, but King Clancy, on his first trip up the ice, almost knocked the back out of the Pirate net with a bullet-like drive that he let go well out beyond Burke and McCaffrey, and Worters was beaten by a long one which was so hot that it appeared shot.

The Senators, nursing their one-goal edge, were satisfied to stay on the defensive until Milks, after six minutes of play, passed Connell with an unassisted effort. Darragh set the scoring stage by bouncing the disc off the Ottawa goalie's pads, and Hib played the hero role by hammering the rebound into an upper corner of the mesh. For the next 10 minutes the batting was furious but even, but at 17:54 the tide turned Pittsburghward when Harold Darragh took a pass from McCraffrey and slipped a low twister by Connell for the victory goal. Darragh's drive from the boards and well out, passed the fatel blue goal line by not more than two or three inches—just far enough to give the steamed-up fans occasion for another cheering orgy.

The third period found the Pirates neglecting the offense that they might concentrate on the business of nursing their advantage. The Senators, realizing that no combination drives were to be launched, came up the ice in a body, leaving only Connell to guard their goal. It was while one of these mass drives were under way that McCaffrey gained posession of the rubber, and although three Senators beat him down to the Ottawa goal, he eluded them all, drew Goalie Connell out with a faked shot and then unleased a real wallop that strained the goal's strands.

Though it caused the fans to relax with a sigh of satisfaction, McCaffrey's success failed to dampen the Ottawa ardor. Taking up the attack again more vigorously than before, the Senators kept Worters doing nose dives and tail spins thrughout the final 14 minutes. But Goalie Roy was "on", and when Roy is fuctioning properly Pirate foemen have to carry the puck past him to register a score.

Augsburg College hockey team to represent America in the Olympic games at Amsterdam.

When told of MacArthur's declaration that he had ignored the explicit commands of the Olympic body in failing to hold elimination trials, Haddock said that for two months he had attempted to arrange test games, but that no amateur ice club had expressed a willingness to enter because of the barrier thrown up by the ruling of the Olympic committe that winter sports athletes themselves must defray half of the expense entailed in sending them abroad.

RULING CAUSED SITUATION

"Realizing that a ruling that winter sports athletes defray half of their expenses might bring about a deplorable situation such as this," Haddock said, "I fought the passage of such a law at the New York meeting of the Olympic body, but to no avail. Now that the evil of such a ruling has become evident when it is too late to remedy it, the Olympic committee, through MacArthur, is attempting to cover up its own mistake by attempting to place the blame on me.

"For two months I bent every effort toward the arranging of such trials as the Olympic committee had requested, but, because of the decision that the successful ice team must pay half of the expense money for the overseas trip (approximately $4,500), none was willing to accept an invitation to the ttrials.

"Clubs invited to the trials included such renowned amateur hockey teams as the University Club of Boston, the Eveleth Club of Minnesota, the cream of Chicago's amateur hockey leagues and others. None accepted, and, because the Augsburg College sextet, in addition to being extremely skillful, had the financial backing of an enthusiastic alumni body, I gave it the award.

AUGSBURG TEAM GOOD

"I am confident that Augsburg ranks as one of the best amateur hockey teams in the country, that it will be able to defeat every entry in the international competition with the exception of Canada's, and that it will be able to make a better showing against our neighbors from the Dominion than we did four years ago.

"Since 1925, when pro hockey besieged and captured many of America's leading amateur hockey strongholds, amateur hockey has not known the financial prosperity that it previously enjoyed. Consequently, that hardship born of the Olympic body's 'half-expenses' ruling could not be overcome in any way other than the manner in which I have overcome it."

After answering all of MacArthur's charges, Haddock added a few charges of his own. "The effect of this controversy and this trouble probably will be more far-reaching than is now apparent," he said. "Gustavius Kirby has been delegated to visit foreign countries in an effort to get them to send their hockey teams to the Olympic Games to be staged at Los Angeles in 1932. If America does not send a hockey team to the games this year, it is not likely that European nations will be eager to send their winter sports athletes to the international competition to be held here four years hence."

HADDOCK IS ATTACKED

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(INS.)—The American Olympic Committee today made public a scathing telegram from Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, president of the committee, to William S. Haddock, president of the United States Amateur Hockey Association, in which the general accuses Haddock of failing to attend to his knitting and holds him responsible for the refusal of the American Olympic Committee to certify the entry of the Augsburg College hockey team in the Olympic Games as the representative of the United States.

the Siano Club in the P. & O. League.

Thanks to the efforts of Joe Miele and Tony Siano, two prominent Hill district Italians, the Latin race is well represented in independent circles this winter. The J. J. Mieles, sponsored and managed by Italians, include in their lineup John and Phil Aiello and Palmer Schrello, all Italians and boys who rank with the best.

This team last year won the P. & O. League championship without difficulty and this year it won the first-half title and has more than an even chance of winning the second half.

This is Siano's second season as a basketball promoter and he, like Miele, is relying mainly on Italian boys to represent his team on the floor. Besides Gentille the Sianos have Cotz, Cataio, Collodi, Palamone, Bracarrelli and Delvicchio on their roster.

coach probably for his work at Wash-Jeff, where he enjoyed his finest success, and as the inventor of the short, flat forward pass over the line of scrimmage, which proved difficult to break up.

However, now comes a tale which pictures him as a forerunner of Knute Rockne in the idea of holding his best players in reserve instead of using them in his starting lineup.

THE story has to do with the manner in which Folwell employed Howard Berry when the latter was the fullback ace and kicking star at Penn.

Berry was Folwell's first-string fullback, but he started comparatively few games. As Ed Pollock, a Philadelphia scrivener, tells of it, Berry was very high strung. Before every important game he was a nervous wreck. If he started the game he forgot his signals and was in the way of the other ball-carriers, unless he was tipped off verbally by one of his teammates.

If he was supposed to carry the ball, he frequently left his interference, not knowing where the play was to go.

In order to overcome his extreme nervousness, Berry was kept on the bench, sometimes for five minutes and sometimes for the entire first period.

This method proved beneficial in two ways. By talking to him when the game was going on, Folwell succeeded in calming Berry's nerves. That was one distinct advantage. The other was the psychological edge which the Notre Dame team enjoys when the second eleven is replaced by the first.

WHEN Berry was substituted the students roared from the moment he arose from the bench. The opposition knew he was the big offensive star and feared his ability. Furthermore, his presence pepped up the other players, with the result that the play of every Quaker athlete improved.

Pollock recalls distinctly one year when a great Dartmouth team was playing at Franklin Field. The Green eleven jumped off to a one-touchdown lead and later Berry was substituted. The Red and Blue had the ball on Dartmouth's 35-yard line.

Howard Berry.

Judging from the roaring of the Pennsylvania students, the score was as good as tied when Berry entered the fray. On the third down Berry raced off tackle, cut in beautifully behind the line and then headed down-field. He scored and then drop-kicked the goal to knot the figures at 7-all. That was the final score.

The difference between Folwell and Rockne is that the Notre Dame mentor applies the system to his entire first team, whereas Folwell applied it only to Berry.

WELL do I remember Berry. He was the all-round athletic star of Northeast Manual Training School when I was breaking into the newspaper game in Philadelphia and was such an attraction that the paper on which I was employed engaged him to write special articles on scholastic sports, and it was thus that I was brought in close contact with him in the office and also followed his athletic career. He was the best man on his team in any line of sport he attempted, both in high school and college, and was sought as a shortstop by the big league clubs even in his high school days. After he finished his college work he was with the Giants for a time. As a track athlete at Penn he monopolized the Pentathlon championship, the feature of the Penn Relays carnival, and more than once his marks were compared with those of the one and only Jim Thorpe.

Jim Thorpe.

Bob Folwell certainly handled this athletic marvel well and it is only fitting that this fine job should be recalled and stressed now that he is gone.

THE St. Louis Browns got a mighty good pitcher when they obtained Jack Ogden from Jack Dunn's Baltimore Orioles, the farm of so many stars, in exchange for two players and cash the other day. The baseball world knows how the Orioles have gone to smash the last two seasons, after setting a record by winning six consecutive International league pennants, yet Ogden won 24 games in 1926 and 21 last year against a total of 24 defeats for the two seasons, 15 in 1926 and nine last season. He has been in the International League for 10 seasons, the first, 1919, with Rochester and the others with Baltimore. His best year was 1921, when he won 31 games and lost only eight, and he has had seasons in which he won 28 and 27 games.

Included in Ogden's 1921 record of 31 victories was a run of 18 straight, a new league record. Competing in six Little World Series, he has won 10 games and lost four. He appeared in 38 games last year, in 28 of which he went the route and in seven of which he acted in a relief role. He failed to finish only three of the games that he started. With his long seasoning in a high-class minor league and the record he has compiled he certainly should make the grade with the Browns.

New Industries Absorbing Many Millions of Workers.

By B. C. FORBES

A NEW industry is born, and lo! it presently gives employment to a vast army of workers.

Decay attacks an old industry and many thousands are thrown out of their accustomed employment.

Yet this adaptable nation of ours contrives, somehow, to keep our enormous wage-earning population astonishingly evenly employed.

ONLY twenty years ago the automobile represented an extremely minor industry. Today it gives direct employment to almost 3,500,000 and indirect employment to 400,000, making a total not far short of 4,000,000. This is a greater number than employed in any other industry in America, apart from agriculture.

THINK of the amazing growth of the electric light and power industry. Only a few years ago it was an infant. Today it has a capital investment of nearly $9,000,000,000, its gross revenue last year approximated $1,700,000,000, it added during 1927 no fewer than 1,650,000 new customers and today has 21,625,000 customers, including nearly 18,000,000 households. Here we have witnessed the creation of another large army of workers, at least 250,000 in addition to the varying thousands employed on construction work.

THE telephone is not quite so new as a sizeable industry, yet the Bell system alone has increased its employes from 140,000 in 1912 to 315,000 today, a gain of 175,000. Last year alone 750,000 new telephones were installed, bringing the total to 18,500,000. The New York Telephone Company has invested more than $550,000,000 since 1920 in additions.

THE radio was little more than a toy five years ago. Today it is common through the length and breadth of the land. The invention, the making, the distribution, the selling, the maintaining of radios is bringing into being a brand-new army of workers. The furnishing of daily programs for radio listeners gives employment to still others.

ALTHOUGH still wrestling with the troubles incidental to childhood, the aircraft industry is already absorbing the work of a considerable force one way or another. And it is certain that within a few years the total number of persons deriving their livelihood from this industry will be very greatly increased.

ANOTHER occupation which has quietly drawn to its ranks thousands of brainy men during recent years is research. Our leading industrial corporations today each employ, as a rule, anywhere from a modest number to several thousands for pure research work. General Electric, General Motors, Eastman Kodak, American Telephone, National Cash Register, Westinghouse, Burroughs Adding Machine, United States Steel and the Du Ponts have been conspicuous in this field, in which $200,000,000 or more has been spent annually.

THINK of the myriads of new positions created by the motion picture industry. There is scarcely a hamlet throughout the length and breadth of the continent that does not now boast of at least one movie theater. Each gives employment directly to one or more persons, while the largest motion picture palaces, and they are veritable palaces, call for the services of troops of musicians, a galaxy of ushers, vaudeville artists, artisans, etc., and, of course, there are the other thousands of artists, directors, producers, etc., engaged in making the pictures.

THE chief statistician of the Western Electric Company, E. S. Gregg, has compiled the following estimates of increases in employment in various fields in the space of four years:

Increases in employed July, 1923, to July, 1927:

Building (excluding roads, subways, etc.), 1,000,000.

Automobile, truck and bus operation and maintenance, 500,000.

Road and subway construction, 100,000.

Trade (chain stores, etc.), 100,000.

Public service, 100,000.

Operation and maintenance apartments, hotels, 100,000.

Operation and maintenance office buildings, 50,000.

Oil production, 50,000.

Total, 2,000,000.

MEANWHILE, as we all know, there are other lines of work which have either dwindled or died, the number engaged in agriculture alone has decreased 3,000,000 since 1919.

Yet all of the switching and changing thus involved have been conducted with a miraculously small amount of disastrous dislocation.

Yes, we are an astoundingly adaptable nation.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Federal Reserve Banks' Report.

The Federal Reserve banks' statements showed that while the New York bank was selling $26,353,000 of its government security holdings some others of the 11 banks were buying, as the total decline for the reserve system was $41,395,000. This compared with the $81,000,000 decline of last week that so scared all Wall street that the stock market slipped into a state of dullness unequalled in over two years. Security holdings of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York are but $37,439,000 above those of this time a year ago.

Texas Co. and California Pete to Merge.

Los Angeles—The Texas Corporation will acquire the California Petroleum Corporation, according to an agreement entered into in New York between R. C. Holmes, president of the former, and Jacques Vinmont, president of the California corporation. This report was received in Los Angeles from an unquestioned source. The deal will be consummated on the basis of one share of Texas corporation stock for each two shares of stock of the California Petroleum Corporation. At least 51 per cent of the California Petroleum stock must be deposited before the deal can go through. The Texas corporation has outstanding 12,000,000 shares of an authorized amount of 12,500,000 of $25-par value common stock, on which it is now paying dividends at the rate of $3 a year. The California Petroleum Corporation has outstanding 12,274,644 shares of $25-par value common stock, on which it is now paying $1 a year in dividends.

Wall street attaches significance to the fact that Myron C. Taylor, new chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation, has moved into the offices on the seventeenth floor of 71 Broadway which the late Elbert H. Gary occupied as chairman of the corporation. James A. Farrell, president and chief executive officer, retains his offices on the eighteenth floor and directs the physical operations with full authority.

Plate Glass Outlook Improves.

The American Glass Review says: "Probably the one outstanding development of the week—and a most vital one, insofar as the future course of both manufacturers and distributors in the flat glass branch of the industry may be affected—was the submission to manufacturers for approval of plans worked out at the recent conference in Pittsburgh. It is understood that before steps are taken to effect an organization in line with the conferees' recommendations the consent of each manufacturer will be obtained if possible. Operating schedules, as well as distribution of window glass, continued virtually status quo. Quite a few inquiries have been received of late, however, giving promise of a turn for the better soon. Distribution of plate glass, as in the previous week, showed some improvement."

Steel Corporation Advances Prices.

The United States Steel Corporation, through its subsidiaries, has advanced prices for bars, shapes and plates $1 a ton. The new quotations are $1.85 per 100 pounds, Pittsburgh, and $1.95, Chicago. These prices are for deliveries in the first quarter only, and second quarter business will not be accepted at the new levels, indicating that another advance may be made before long. Operations of the Steel Corporation continue to increase and ingot production is now at 80 per cent of capacity, compared with 78 per cent at the beginning of the week and 72 per cent 10 days ago.

Approximately 14,000 tons of steel pipe will be involved in these last two lines. Petroleum Securities Company, Los Angeles, is about to place an order for 410 tons of 8¼ to 16-inch steel pipe for its new Richmond, Cal., plant.

Bulge in Heavy Construction.

Proposed projects in the heavy construction field throughout the country last week aggregated $103,820,000, compared with $57,015,000 the week before and $100,100,000 a year ago. While public work led, activity in commercial and residential buildings continues at a high rate, the McGraw-Hill Construction Daily reports.

STOCK MARKET PRICES STAGE COME-BACK

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP.)—Further recoveries took place in today's stock market, although the advance was not accompanied by any substantial increase in trading. Buying seemed to center in a few special issues in the leading groups of stocks, with indications that pools furnished much of the activity.

Despite the reduction in call money from 4 to 3½ per cent and the decrease of $32,000,000 in brokers' loans last week, the credit situation was still a source of some uneasiness and tended to restrict operations for the advance. This was probably due to the further liquidation of United States government securities by the Federal Reserve Banks, which was interpreted in some quarters as an official effort to restrict the volume of credit available for securities speculation.

There was little in the day's business to influence the price movement. Omission of the Pathe preferred dividend already had been discounted by the action of the stock, and the inauguration of divideds on the Bucyrus-Erie issues was in accordance with the previously announced plans of the financial interests sponsoring the recent merger.

Montana Power retained the leadership of the public utilities by soaring to a new record peak at 118, but the other power and light stocks met some selling resistance. Strength and activity of Hupp Motors was believed to reflect the operations of William C. Durant, who is credited with having accumulated about 40 per cent of that company's stock. A. M. Byers, National Biscuit, International Nickel and G. R. Kinney also were conspicuously strong.

HULL IS CHOICE OF TENNESSEE

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, former Democratic national chairman, was presented to the nation today as the South's latest candidate for the presidency.

Hull was entered in the race by the unanimous indorsement of the Tennessee delegation in Congress. He may make a formal announcement later.

Putting him forward as a "harmony candidate" the Tennessee delegation spokesman emphatically denied that Hull was being proposed as a favorite son or a stalking horse to check-mate any candidate now in the field.

A veteran of nearly 20 years in Congress, Hull achieved his greatest national prominence as the party's chairman from 1921 to 1924.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Cold weather endangering domestic winter wheat where there is no blanket of snow did a good deal to turn the wheat market upward early today. Meanwhile, corn values were easy owing largely to improved conditions for the movement of corn to market. Opening unchanged to ⅛c higher, wheat subsequently scored gains all around. Corn started at ⅛c to ⅜c decline, but afterward rallied. Oats were firm. Provisions advanced.

At noon wheat was ⅝c to ⅝c net higher and corn ¼c to 1c off.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The raw sugar market was quiet and unchanged today at 4.46c for Cuban, duty paid. No sales were reported.

Raw sugar futures opened steady and unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and a little European buying in response to the higher London market. The demand, however, was soon supplied and the market eased off under liquidation and selling by houses with Cuban connections. The midday market was net 1 to 2 points lower. The volume of business, however, was light, and the trade were inclined to hold off and await fresh developments in the spot market.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 5.80c for fine granulated with only a moderate inquiry reported.

Carnegie Metals At New High Record

Carnegie Metals sold at a new high price today, with the stock shading off at the end of the first hour and then working up around midday. Followers of the stock continue to maintain a bullish attitude toward the issue because the future outlook for the stockholders is favorable. It has been predicted for some time that the stock is headed for $25 a share.

Strength developed in Westinghouse Electric. Houston Gulf Gas was one of the weakest issues, losing around one point. Conley Tank Car preferred showed a firm tendency but the trading in it was light. There was not much activity in the miscellaneous group, the list being rather dull, with price changes narrow. United Engineering sold at higher levels, transactions in that issue being limited. A good sized block of United States Glass changed hands at recently prevailing prices.

According to unofficial reports, Arkansas Gas is to be taken over by Doherty on the basis of 96⅛ in 6 per cent preferred stock for each 10 shares of the stock and a bonus of one share in common for each share of Arkansas Gas exchanged for the new stock.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 7 to 10 points under realizing or liquidation probably promoted by failure of Liverpool to meet fully the local advance yesterday afternoon. Offerings were comparatively light.

After selling off to 18.82c for May, prices turned steadier, showing rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest by the end of the first hour on covering. There may also have been a little buying on the reported continuance of droughty conditions in West Texas.

Private cables reported continental buying supplied by London and Manchester selling in Liverpool and fair inquiry for cotton cloths from India, with yarns quieter.

This is Something you should know about!

This institution is undertaking a most comprehensive campaign for the information of thinking men and women who are genuinely concerned about placing the future welfare of their loved ones beyond the hazards of chance.

It has to do with the Life Insurance Trust, an arrangement whereby the money from life insurance policies, instead of going in lump sums to the heirs, is placed under our direction, insuring competent business management for its spending over a period of years.

Unfortunately, experience demonstrates beyond controversy that life insurance money left in lump sums to those inexperienced in the ways of business, for one reason or another does not last long enough to carry out the purpose for which it was bought.

The Life Insurance Trust, which can be made as flexible or as rigid as desired, guards against the whims of careless spending.

Without obligation, we should like to include your name on our mailing list, and the return of the coupon carries no obligation.

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER.

SEEMS that Mortimer, manager of Tom Heeney, has a legitimate two-time squawk. Heeney has whipped everybody he met in America, except the referees and judges.

The best Tom can get for himself is a draw. We must admit that Heeney is sluggish, and cannot attain the speed of our quick-stepping, fast-falling heavyweights.

But we have yet to see him back up for anybody. Sharkey popped him in the first round with two anxious, overhand rights that were heavy enough to make a base drum stutter for the rest of its life.

Tom took them and held out his dish for more. Those two rights pressed the button, but didn't ring the bell, and it was Heeney's fight from then on. All he got was his draw.

Heeney is in the same class with Samson, who tore up the ring posts, brought down the arena and whipped ten thousand Philistines. But Sam still lost the decision.

We met Mortimer in London during the Walker-Milligan fight. He was still simmering over the Paulino fight. He said: "I lost one hundred royal British pounds on that decision, which I think is equal to $500.

"When Joe Humphreys, the famous cigaret announcer, gave the decision to Paulino, I rushed down the aisle to protest. I met a newspaper man and protested to him. He said: 'Pipe down, it was in the bag.'"

It appears that "in the bag" was new stuff to Mortimer, who asked for an explanation, and got it. He then continued his run down the aisle, where he met Tex Rickard.

"I demanded my one hundred pounds back from Mr. Rickard, who told me to 'scaroo,' whatever that means. I then told Mr. Rickard that the decision was decidedly odd. Mr. Rickard retorted: 'You don't mean to say it was in the bag, do you?'

"'In the bag? In the bag?' I told Rickard. 'Why, it was in a blooming, big potato sack.'"

But that didn't bring Mortimer's hundred pounds back to him. He is still the manager of Heeney, and Heeney is a good, big fighter. He will make plenty of money in America, even if he never gets better than a draw.

Mortimer will eventually get the equivalent of his hundred pounds back, but he could make millions by betting that Heeney never gets anything better than a draw.

Unlike his brother Londoners, Mortimer lost no money on the Walker-Milligan fight. He has no illusions about the rest of the English heavies, but he claims Heeney is among the best.

Heeney can take it. Scott could take it. But he couldn't carry it. Bombardier Wells could either take it or leave it alone. He preferred the latter.

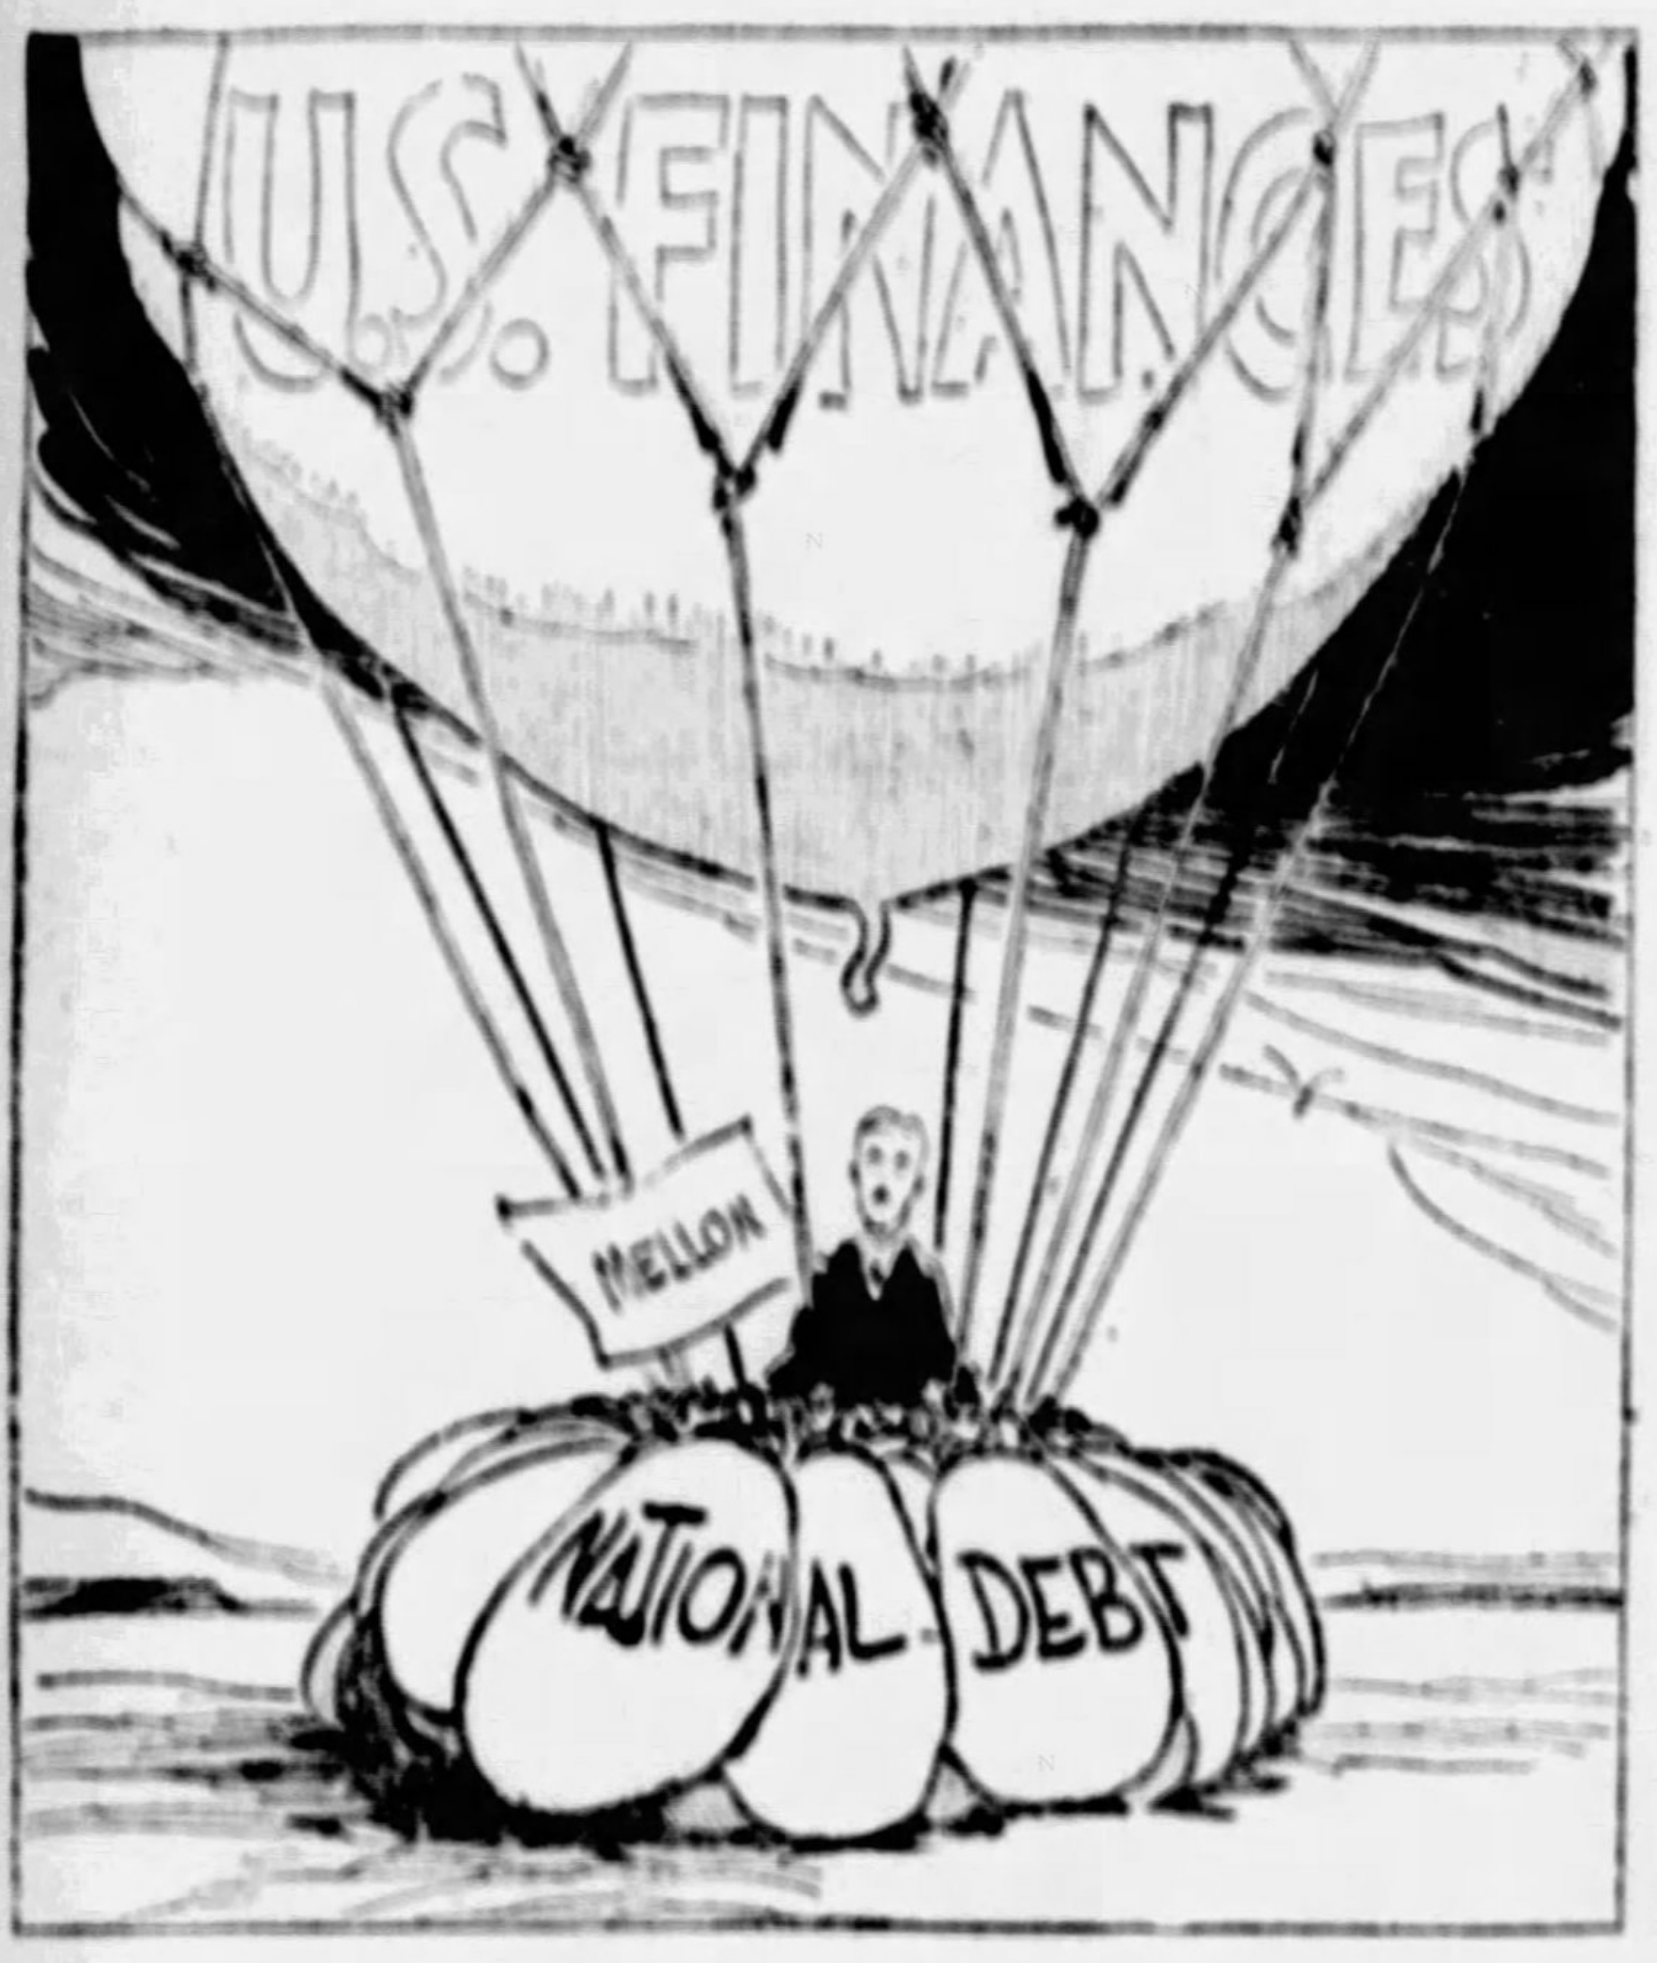
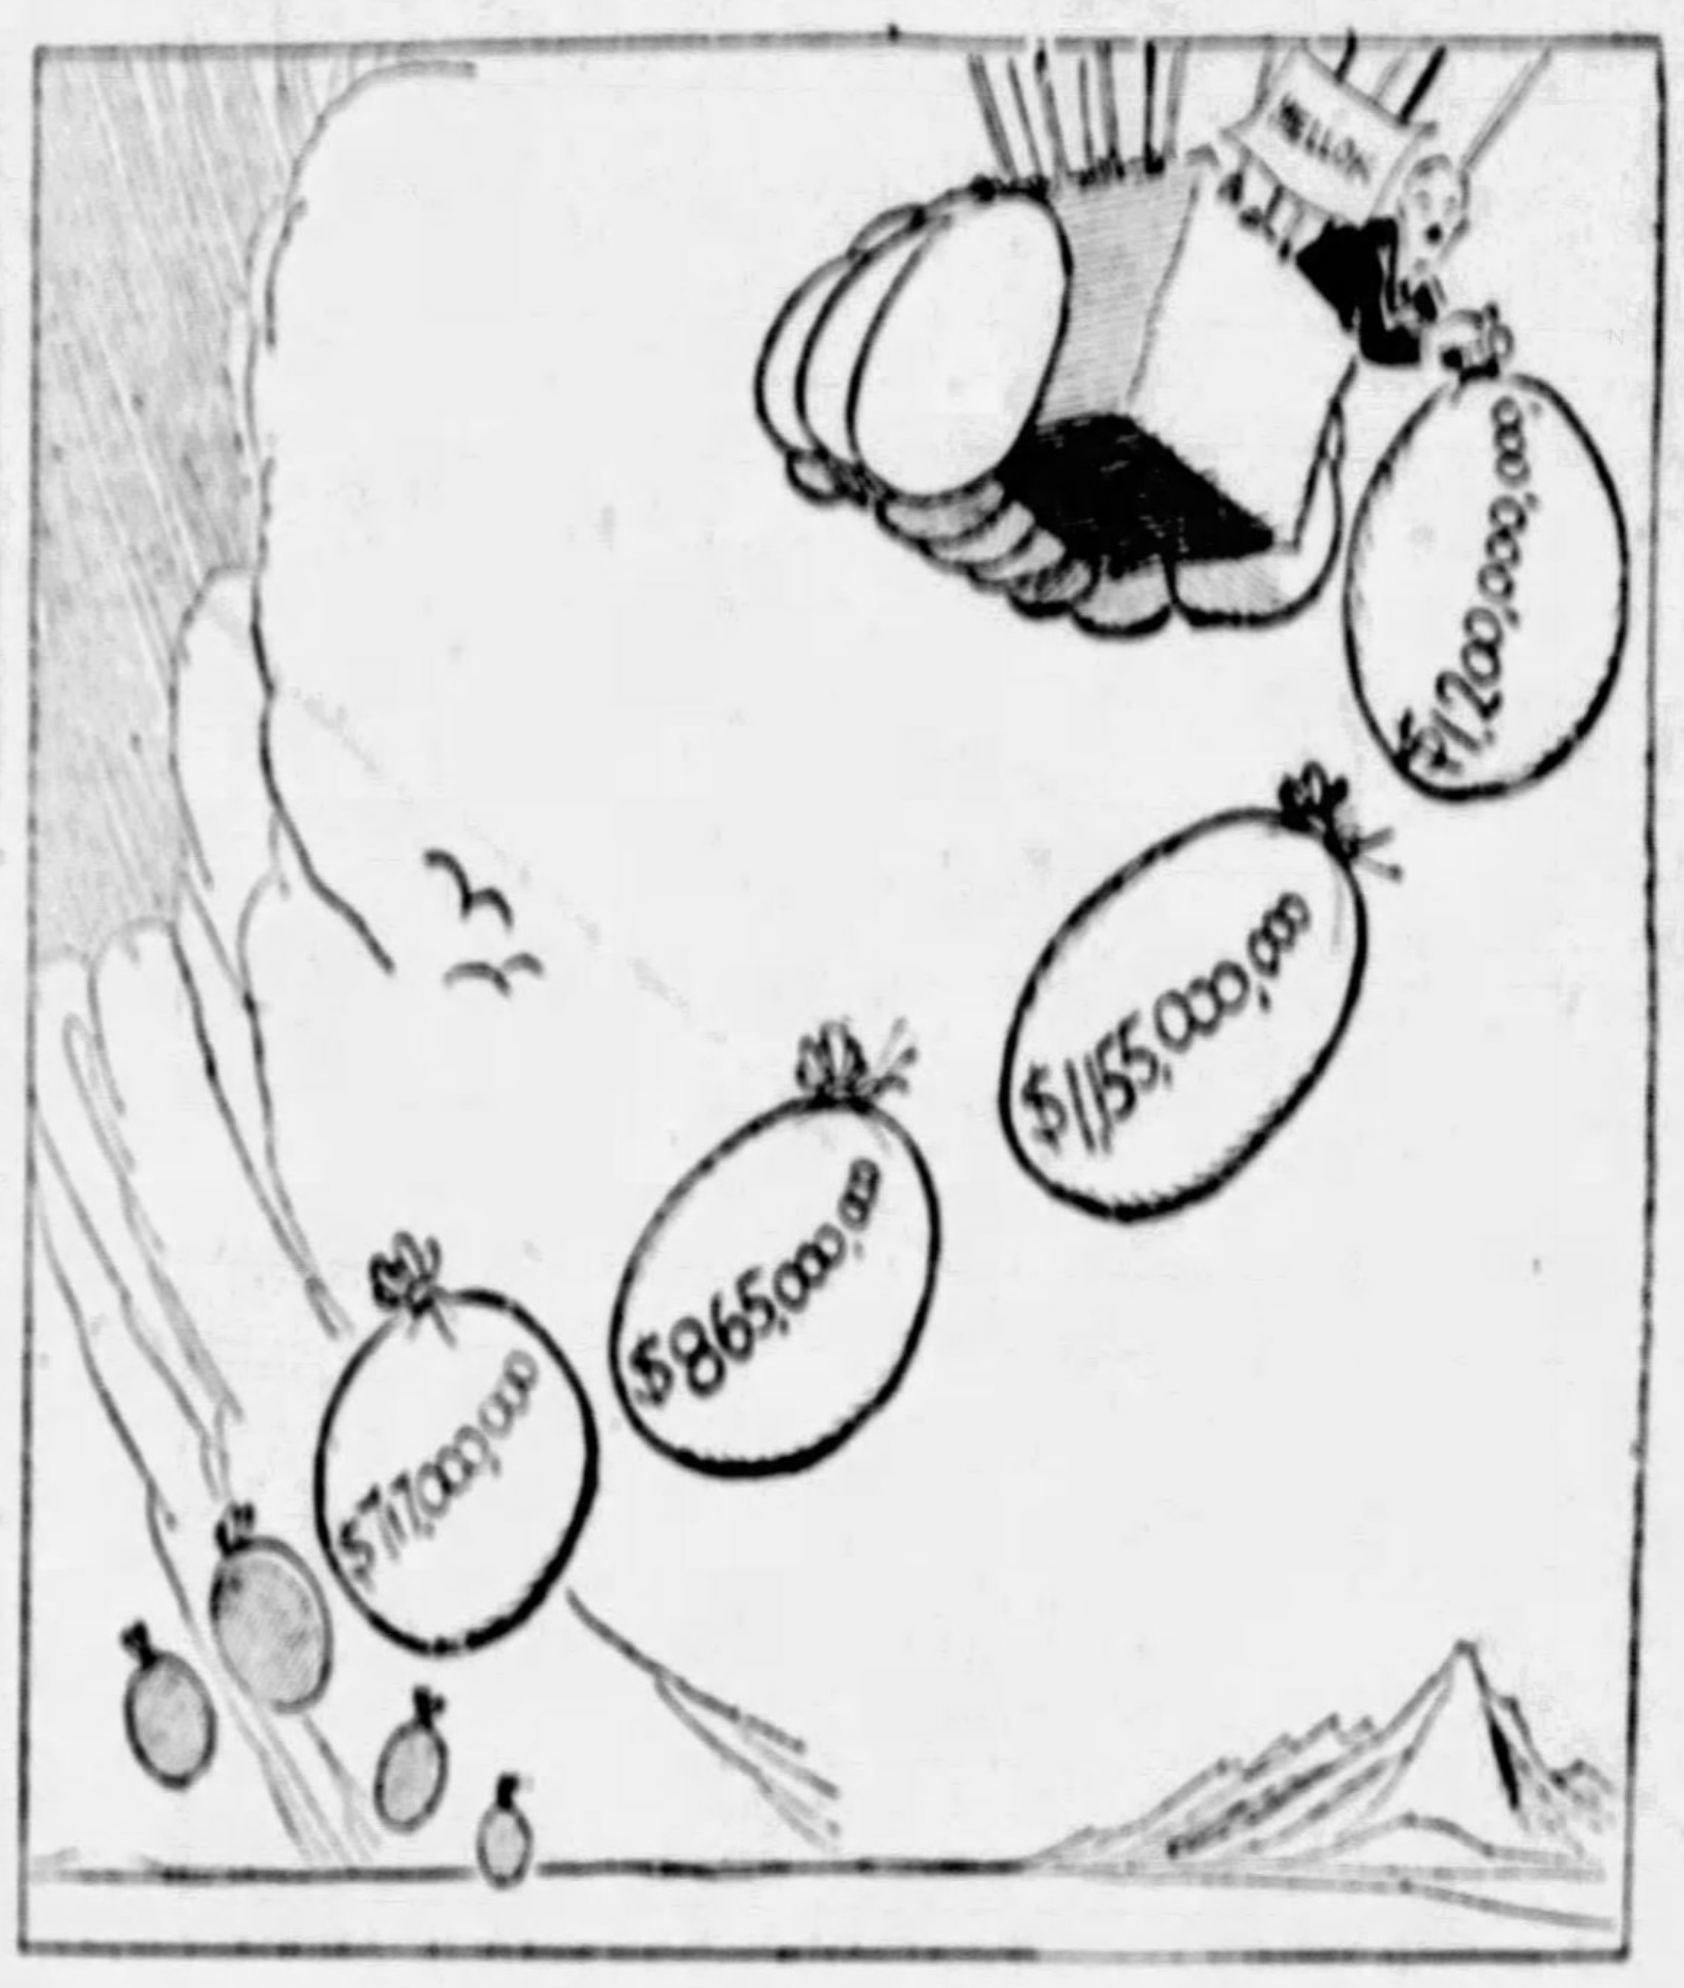
This Nation Cannot Do Without Secretary Mellon; Right Way to Retain Him Is to Make Him President

Too Heavy to Rise



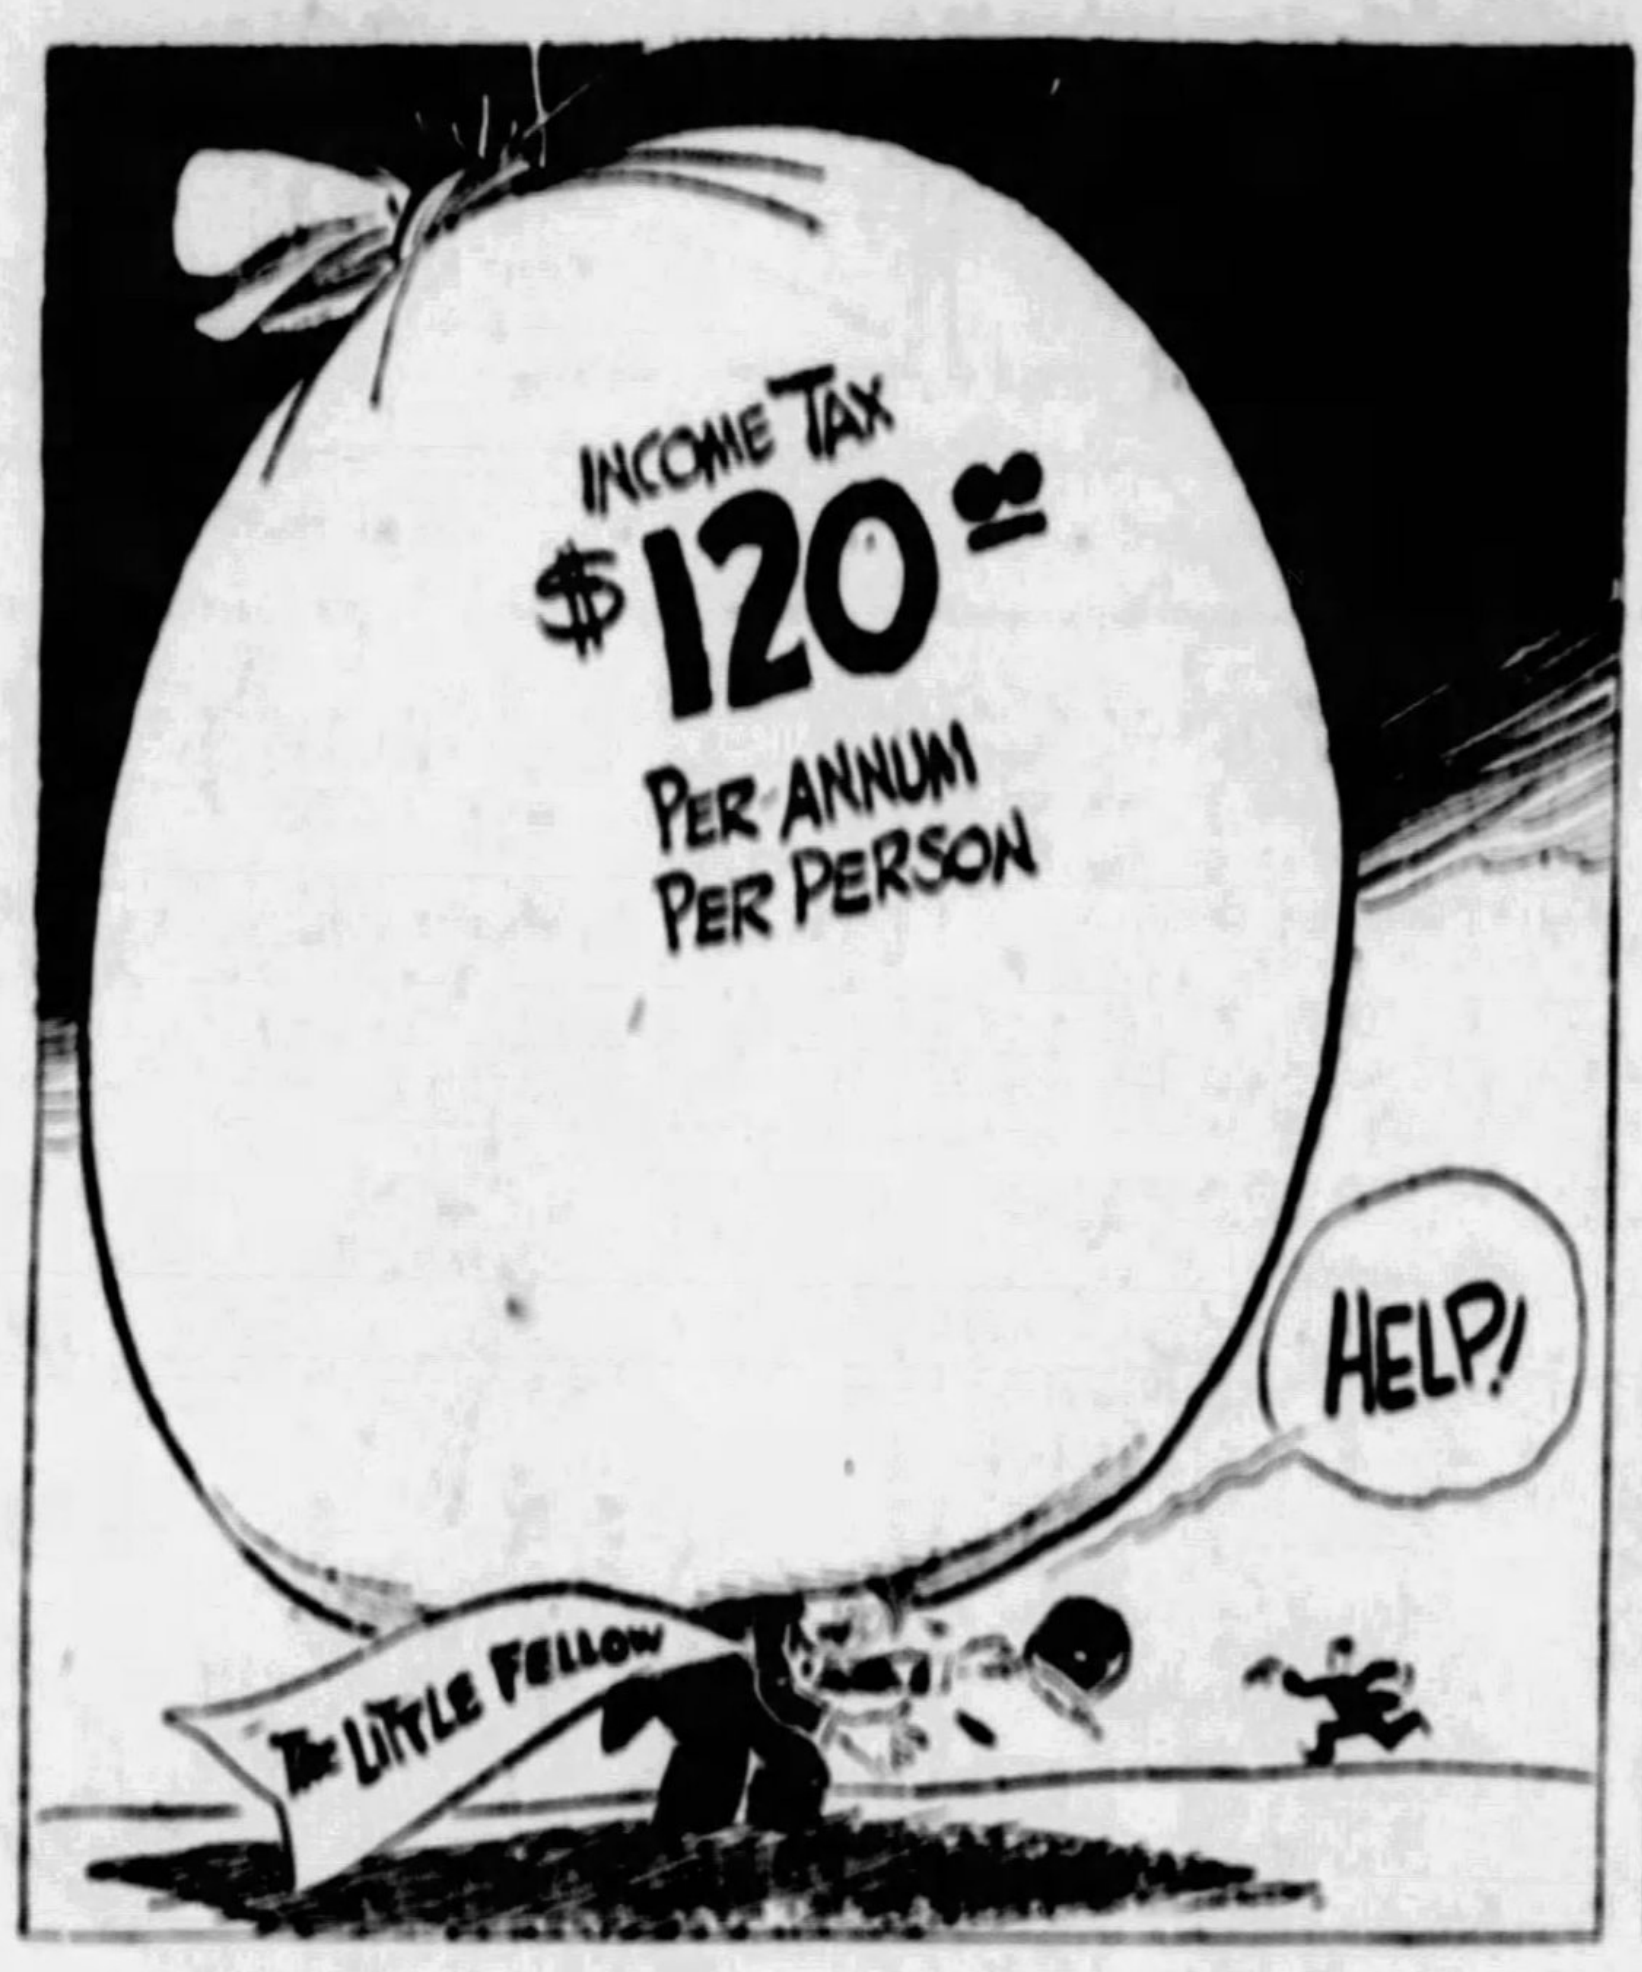
When Secretary Mellon came into office, in 1921, the country was burdened with a stupendous war debt totaling the sum of twenty-four thousand million dollars.

Look at It Now!



In seven years of office Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has reduced this debt six thousand million dollars—the reduction being over a billion dollars annually the last two years.

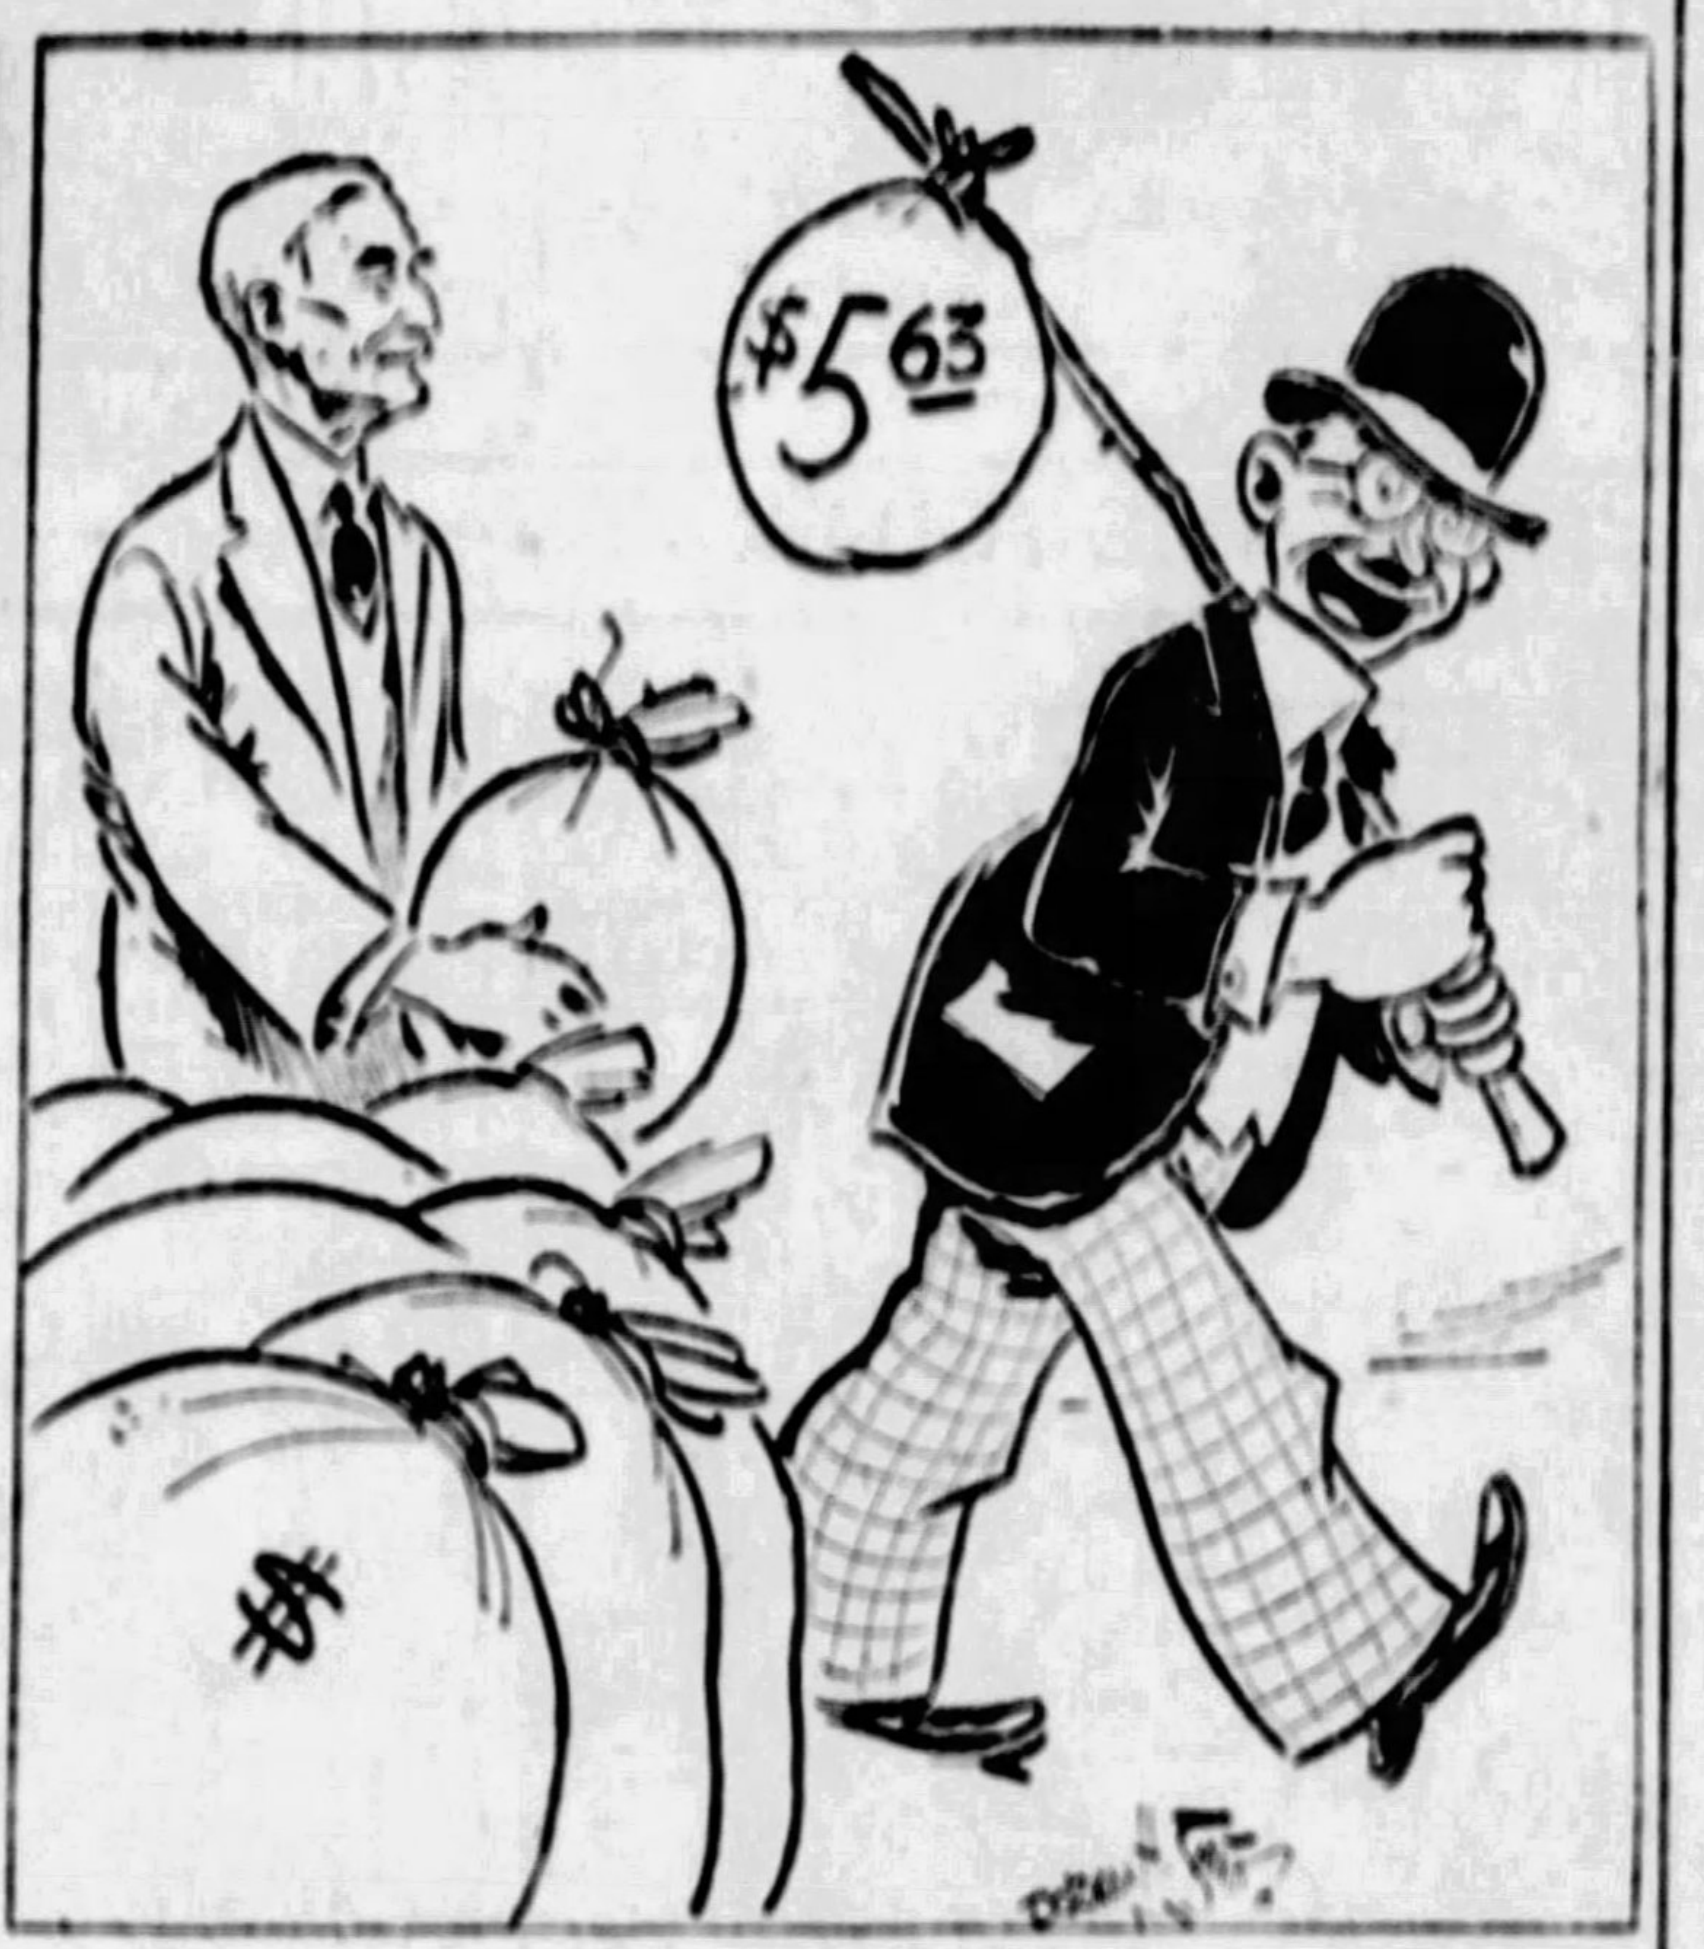
Help, Help!



INCOME TAX $120.00 PER ANNUM PER PERSON
HELP!
THE LITTLE FELLOW

When Secretary Mellon took the helm the annual income tax imposed upon a married man with no children and a taxable income of $4,000 a year amounted to $120 a year.

He Got Help



After seven years of Mellon management this same man now pays an income tax which is less than one-twelfth as large as in 1920. Today he has to contribute only $5.63 a year.

THE country should demand Mr. Mellon's nomination for the Presidency, regardless of his desires in the matter.

It is not true that he is too old. The labor of being President is not any more exacting than the labor of being Secretary of the Treasury.

Secretary Mellon, in the matter of physical and mental vigor, is a younger man than Washington when he undertook his second term as President in 1793.

Washington likewise protested that he was too old. Finally, however, he yielded to demand of the people and rounded out a second term, one of the most glorious periods in our history.

JUST so, Mr. Mellon should be drafted to stay. If a new Republican administration were to begin its term next March 4 without the financial genius of Mr. Mellon to guide the Treasury policy, the country would feel almost as much trepidation as if a Democratic administration should come in with an untried Treasury policy.

Mr. Mellon cannot be expected to remain always as Secretary of the Treasury. He has been head of the Treasury for seven years. They were seven years of great and unexampled prosperity.

He has either been responsible for the enormous success of the Republican fiscal policy, the American fiscal policy, or he has not. If he has not, then he can properly retire. If he has been responsible for this tremendous success, he should receive the recognition which such an overwhelming service deserves.

AS a plain matter of fact, the country cannot as yet do without Mr. Mellon. The right way to retain his services, and probably the only way to retain his services, is to make him President.

It is largely Mr. Mellon who has created the prosperity for which the Republican party claims credit. And the way to retain the prosperity is to retain Mr. Mellon.

Give Mr. Gardner $20,000 'But Smash Murder Ring

The county commissioners have before them a proposal to appropriate to the special use of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner $10,000 as a fund for rewards and an additional $10,000 to be employed toward the capture of more murderers. If $10,000 will enable the district attorney to smash the murder ring, let him have it.

Let him have any amount!

Only destroy the band of assassins, if there be such an association, or bring to justice the parties who have been engaged in wholesale slaying, if it has been by individuals instead of by an organized gang!

Give the district attorney what he needs to make his department efficient, even if the act be an implication that our county detective force does not contain sufficient men capable of performing duties the public expects of it. Not as large as it should be, containing some officers who owe their appointment to political service rather than detective ability, perhaps we look for too much in expecting it might rise to an emergency instead of merely performing routine duty in a routine way.

An addition of six men to the present county detective force of 24 was authorized by the last legislature, but they have not been named. It is said that there are several hundred applicants for the half-dozen jobs.

If the appointments be made on indication of detective ability, rather than on political preference, there may be uncovered some policing skill that would make unnecessary any further appropriations when an extraordinary situation arises. It might even prevent its arising.

Meanwhile such a situation exists. And at least one of the commissioners thinks Mr. Gardner should have two funds of $10,000 each to cope with it. If it proves to be effective, no $20,000 will ever have been spent with greater profit, even though it be a confession that our detectives are employed mostly as messengers. It doesn't take much of a detective to go to another city and bring back a criminal arrested by other officers. It takes men with a combination of shrewdness, courage and strength to be real detectives.

Let us have, as the additional six, men of that caliber. And give those who are of that caliber on the present force a chance to demonstrate it.

Don't Go Slowly

A New Order of Things

Not long ago farmers used to pass laws saying that you must not drive an automobile faster than fifteen miles an hour, and if requested, when you met a farm wagon, stop your engine, get out of your car and lead the farm horses past you.

Now farmers go fifty miles an hour, and Cook county, Chicago, Ill., announces that those that drive more slowly than twenty miles an hour on county highways will be arrested for loitering and obstructing traffic. Things CHANGE.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Comet Monsters

I was born in Lithuania in 1875, not far from the city of Vilna. I must have been four or five years old when I saw a comet with a tail as clear as the moon. I cannot forget the vision all my life! I remember people talking of it as a sign of big wars. I am sure it must have been somewhere about 1880. Please let me know if there was a comet about then, or whether I am dreaming.—JACOB IDOV.

YOU were not dreaming, though I can testify that one may dream of seeing a comet, and that such a dream makes a more lasting impression than any nightmare. You were born pretty close, in time, to a remarkable nest of comets belonging to a wonderful group of those space rovers which has earned for itself the somewhat startling title of "the family of sun-grazers!" Only five comets are known to belong to this strange association, and no less than three of them put in their appearance between the years 1880, 1882 and 1887, not to mention a fourth, not a member of the formidable family of sun flaunters, which stalked polewards up the northern sky in the summer of 1881.

But neither the comet of 1880, which was known as "the great southern comet," nor that of 1887, was seen from the northern hemisphere, while the comet of 1882, which was a monster both in appearance and in behavior, was only visible long after midnight in the morning sky; so it is possible that the one you saw was the comet of 1881, for it appeared in the evening sky and pursued a conspicuous course from the neighborhood of Capella toward the head of the Great Bear. I myself remember seeing that comet from the editorial rooms of the New York Sun, and, though it was not exceedingly bright in the summer twilight, yet it had a long tail that was awe-inspiring as it glowed mysteriously above the trees in City Hall Park.

Every one of these comets, except that of 1881, went so close to the sun that they must have brushed through its coronal banners, and they were thrown to such a pitch of excited energy that (and especially the 1882 monster) they gleamed with insolent brightness right beside the sun in full daylight. The two other members of the family—the comets of 1668 and 1843—also attained daylight visibility and showed the same disregard to solar majesty, sweeping into the curtains of the king of day with perfect recklessness of consequences.

And what these consequences might be, and probably in one case surely were, was shown by the plight in which the comet of 1882 exhibited itself after the dangerous adventure was over and it was retreating into the cooling realm of interstellar space, spurning the gazing planet as it rushed past. The head of that comet visibly split asunder, split into four separate parts, all of which, each developing its own tail, went raging starward until they disappeared like fleeing submarines that had caught a Tartar.

But relentless calculators held on to their tracks until Herr Kreutz enveloped them in a net of mathematical predictions which may—alas! that we shall not ourselves survive long enough to see the exciting denouement—bring them back again for examination and judgment at proportioned intervals of 100 years, the first being due about A. D. 2546. And a good authority has affirmed that each of the four parts into which the mighty comet divided was capable of making a great comet on its return.

THOUGHTS OF THE GREAT—

The wisdom of the wise and the experience of the ages may be preserved by the quotation.—Isaac Disraeli.

The hearts of men are their books; events their tutors; great actions are their eloquence. —Macaulay.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Be Thankful

IF YOU have fairly good health, a position and a comfortable home, there is no reason why the world should not look beautiful to you.

What you get out of this world is in your state of mind.

If you think pleasing thoughts, you are bound to get pleasure.

Too many lose enjoyment they might experience because they will not accept at full value the things which should bring them joy.

Constant regrets that you cannot have many things you want, dissatisfaction over what you have because it is not the very best, cannot bring you anything but further dissatisfaction.

As long as you have the best that you can afford, why not enjoy it?

After all, why should material things make so much difference in your life, since their value is fleeting?

The importance of material things is relatively small when the really big things are considered.

Haven't you much for which to be thankful?

The Rhyming Optimist

Weather Report

SHE smiles, and all the day grows bright,
Which, until now, seemed drab enough;
The world shows rosy with delight,
Each hour is spun of shining stuff.

She frowns; what dire catastrophe
Afflicts the universe straightway!
Wild tempest reigns on land and sea
And clouded is the orb of the day.

The world at large may never know
How storm or calm depend on her,
But lovers all claim it is so,
When love is one's barometer.

Common Sense Strangeness

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHEN President Coolidge tersely announced that he did not choose to run, there were exactly 465,000,000 explanations of the statement given out by the politicians.

They thought he meant everything but what he said. The idea of a man talking and saying just what he meant was unheard of.

Common sense and simple honesty are so rare in the political world that when we meet them in the street we do not recognize them.

Then the other day John G. Lodge, granduncle of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was elected Mayor of Detroit. He declined to make any speeches and he gave out no statement to the press. Neither did he make any promises to anybody. He simply said: "The people know my record of 40 years' service for the city. That is my platform."

He seemed to have the strange idea that the best qualification for filling office is being able to discharge the duties of that office instead of being a good speech maker or shibboleth juggler, baby kisser or hand shaker.

If this sort of thing is to continue what will become of the politicians? We are so used to juggling popular slogans, fanning false jingoism and other antics of that ilk that a man stands out when he simply says, I can do the business and if you want me I will take the job and if you don't want me you can go soak your head.

Rare as this common sense is, however, there are a few who appreciate it and look with satisfaction upon the election. Mr. Lodge is Mayor of Detroit. We hope and pray, also, that his example may spread, for we have had about enough of "running for office," making pleas, shaking hands, kissing babies and all that sort of thing. It is about time we saw the office running for the man.

It has always been characteristic of real ability that it should be sought for and not that it should hunt around for a job, and the idea of a man going out with a brass band trying to get an office is hardly as satisfactory as a man actually doing his work and having the office come to him.

Faces as They Are

WOMEN of Mohammedan faith in Damascus are joining the modern generation of ladies by demanding an opportunity to meet the world face to face. In pursuance of that ideal five hundred of them in that ancient city have formed an anti-veil league and have abandoned the veils which for centuries have hidden their faces from the curious.

The comments of the men of Damascus are not given, whether they were delighted or disappointed. One other thing the women of Damascus must do if they want to be perfectly frank about showing bare faces to the world, and that is to abjure face powder, rouge, enamel and lipsticks—something that even their Occidental sisters have not achieved.

Some day the world may know what women really look like.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Thoughts while strolling: Peggy Joyce driving the Valentino car with the cobra ornament. George C. Tyler, a Chilicothe, O., boy, who made good in the city. Hope Hampton's husband. Those pale orchestra musicians who wear stock ties. Bill Schrode, the Follies stage manager.

Jed Harris, the young theatrical producer, with the customary three-day growth. Whatever became of canary yellow topcoats with lapel chrysanthemums? And spite fences? Young sprigs who wear derbies down to their ears. Maury Paul, who tattles spicy society gossip.

Excitable Italians waving red flag before a dynamite blast. A noted surgeon feeds a cab horse a lump of sugar. The cafeteria with a carriage starter. Young men who defy crisp winds in running suits. What's the idea of all this running around bare-legged?

The studio of a paleo-meditationist. Sounds arty. Flaming red pajamas. A place called "The Last Chance." For what? George Arliss' monocle. The long hair fad increases. That luminous light over Central Park as dusk gathers. Roy Howard's fur coat.

The old beggar who ties sacking around his feet and picks up pins. The New York Athletic Club building. Home-goers who snatch newspapers and scurry down subway steps. Street exhibitionists prepare their "pitches" around Columbus Circle. Bide Dudley and Fulton Oursler.

Broadway flashing in nightly travail. Those lone diners who eat early—and drift. Sign: "Chili that blisters." Hawk-faced ticket gyps. The "stalls" collect in fake jewelry auction rooms. The sophisticated wise-crackers around the Winter Garden.

Acrobats with red cheeks and expressionless faces. Gaudy pastry windows. Old black bonneted ladies with cotton gloves, who sell chewing gum at theater entrances. A cop chases a taxi—and loses. Pawn shops with gloomy side entrances. Julia Hoyt and Lewis Calhern. The stroll ends.

Innumerable actors dine only on soup—they call it "plateing"—before the nightly performance and indulge the heavy meal of the day after the play. Metropolitan song birds rarely eat until after the performance.

On the dressing table of a leading man is a photograph cabinet which contains the pictures of his four wives. All are living. "And the strange thing is," he said, "I love them all." Love is sometimes like that.

And speaking of photographs, the automatic photograph shops on Broadway continue to be crowded all day and far into the night. The invention made a millionaire of an obscure youth. There are now two competitors in the same block. This craze to be photographed is regarded by new Yorkers as a "hick" gesture, yet 90 per cent of patrons are natives.

On Fifth avenue yesterday I noticed a couple who snatched slathers of front page space when they married several months ago. From their extremely self-conscious manner it was evident they still thought they were in the public eye so I followed them three blocks. Not a head turned to gaze.

New York will welcome a celebrity with a louder huzzah than any other city in the world—and then it is through. It never repeats as many heroes and heroines have discovered to their chagrin. The ammunition is exhausted in one shot. Lindbergh, today on a crowded street, would not attract a corporal's guard.

Drug addicts receive scant sympathy in night clubs. One who was spilling a roseate dream, suddenly glanced at his watch and said he was late for an engagement with Otto Kahn. "They ought to get rubber boots for him," said a companion as the unfortunate departed. "He's up to his knees in snow."
